

Agree on Plan To Ban Foreign Munitions, Men From Conflict

Recruits Rush to Beat Deadline Set for Mid-night Saturday

3 MAIN PROPOSALS

Portugal Stands Alone In Dissenting From Program

By the Associated Press

The international "hands off Spain committee," with only Portugal dissenting, approved a plan today to dam the flow of foreign volunteers and munitions into Spain by Saturday midnight.

As 26 members of the neutrality group agreed to the control plan, a rush of military recruits over the Spanish border was apparently originating in France and Italy, to beat the deadline.

An estimated 1,000 Frenchmen were said to have gone to the Spanish civil war since the first of the month with sympathizers of the Valencia government still pouring across the frontier.

Informed sources in Rome intimated there would be no let up in the aid to General Francisco Franco's insurgents until the ban becomes effective.

The neutrality proposals were:

1. Each nation to ban voluntary aid to either Spanish faction by Feb. 20.
2. The committee, also by Feb. 20 to complete a plan to ship munitions of men and guns to Spain.
3. An agreement to put the supervisory plan into operation by March 6.

Portugal's opposition to establishment of an international patrol on her frontiers was ignored by the other powers which, while hopeful of ultimate Portuguese cooperation, determined to police Portuguese entrances to Spain by a naval blockade.

Two Main Provisions

In effect, the plan embodies two main points:

1. Establishment of more than 1,000 neutral observers along the Franco-Spanish and Gibraltar-Franco frontiers to report violations, the committee to make representations to offending governments and its members to share the estimated $2,000,000 cost.
2. Laying a naval cordon around the whole peninsula, Portugal and Spain, with warships of the great European powers. The naval observers, authorized to stop or search suspected violators, would function similar to the land patrol. Ships bound for Spain would pick up observers at control points to insure the admissibility of their cargoes.

To beat the volunteer deadline, hundreds of volunteers, bound presumably by the committee, in the international brigade defending Madrid, trooped across France. Already, well authenticated reports of the landing of thousands of Italians to bolster the insurgent southern seaboard drive had aroused the socialist French government and had spurred the non-intervention action.

Claim Advances

Madrid's defenders, on the first birthday of the socialist-led popular front government, claimed advances on several fronts.

Last Feb. 16 the center-right parties won a majority of 693,396 votes in Spanish national elections in which 9,408,514 ballots were cast. They lost control of the parliament to the left, however, because of the restricted vote electoral code.

Because they controlled more districts the left candidates won 267 of the 473 seats.

British officials announced use of the destroyer Express had been offered to the Spanish government to ship food from Alicante, Spain, to refugees in the Almeria sector, which 150,000 persons were declared homeless in the path of an insurgent seaboard advance. They said insurgent officials consented to British assistance for the refugees.

The Madrid defenses were unified under the supreme command of General Jose Miaja and the government troops on the Guadalajara, Guadarrama and Extremadura fronts under General Sebastian Pozas.

LaFollette Acts to Remove Beverage Tax Division From Jurisdiction of Treasurer

NEW REA HEAD

Madison —(P)— Governor LaFollette took steps today to remove the state beverage tax division from the jurisdiction of Treasurer Sol Levitan, a Progressive, and place it under the tax commission on a civil service basis.

He called in his senate and assembly leaders to draw up an administration bill carrying out his wishes. Those summoned were Assembly Speaker Paul Alfonsi, president Walter J. Rush of the senate and the two chairmen of the joint finance committee, Senator E. M. Rowlands and Assemblyman E. J. Hoelsy.

The beverage tax division has been a center of controversy ever since it was created by the 1933 legislature to collect state revenues on beer, wine and liquor.

It was placed originally under the jurisdiction of former Democratic Treasurer Robert K. Henry. Its 100 employees have never been under civil service and attempts made in the last two legislatures to give them civil service rating failed.

Dropped Old Officers

Levitan, who succeeded Henry in January, began dismissing and replacing the old enforcement officers and inspectors.

Within a few days after the present legislature convened Assemblyman Vernon Thompson (R), Richard Center, introduced a bill requiring all employees to be selected by competitive examination. The bill affected nearly all of Levitan's new appointees.

On a point of personal privilege Assemblyman Thompson criticized Progressive leaders last week for holding up his bill in committee charging them with violating a platform pledge.

Governor LaFollette's announcement he would sponsor an administration bill was the first intimation that he wished to divest Treasurer Levitan of control of the department.

The proposal dovetails with a plan the governor has had under consideration for several months—a general reorganization of state boards, commissions and departments. The reorganization bill has not yet taken form.

Approve Bill To Let Judges Retire at 70

Subcommittee Favors Sumners Measure Providing Full Pay

BALLOT NEXT WEEK?

Senate Likely to Get Plan From Full Committee by Feb. 24

Washington —(P)—A senate judiciary subcommittee approved today the Sumners bill to permit voluntary retirement of federal judges at full pay upon reaching 70 years of age.

The retirement measure has been approved by President Roosevelt as a part of his court reorganization program.

Some senators have regarded it as a possible means of alleviating the judicial controversy which has split Democratic ranks. They expressed the belief one or two justices now on the supreme court who are over 70 might voluntarily retire.

Chairman McCarran (D-Nev.) of the subcommittee said the action in approving the bill was unanimous but that one member did not vote.

This apparently was Senator Borah (R-Idaho) who left the meeting early after suggesting the age limit be raised to 75.

McCarran said the bill would be reported to the full committee next Monday and "guessed" it would be taken up in the senate soon afterward, probably the following Wednesday.

Under the Sumners measure—already passed by the house—justices would be given full pay of $20,000 annually.

Borah said later it was he who did not vote.

Borah Opposes Bill

He added he was "against the bill." He declined to say, however, he would oppose it on the floor.

The house judiciary committee after discussing several minor bills in executive session, adjourned until a week from Thursday, delaying at least until that time a start on the president's program, including an request for authority to increase the membership of the supreme court unless members now over 70 retire.

Committee members said the president's program was not mentioned.

'Provide Security' for Farm Population, Roosevelt Asks; Sends Report to Congress

FACES SENTENCE

Washington —(P)—Justice James M. Proctor took under advisement today the sentencing of John S. Farnsworth (above), former naval lieutenant commander, on a charge of conspiring to communicate confidential naval information to Japan.

Farnsworth, 42, did not plead either guilty or not guilty at his trial yesterday, but chose instead to say "nolo contendere"—contending nothing. His attorneys said he still claimed to be innocent but could not prove it. The maximum penalty is imprisonment for 20 years. (Associated Press Photo)

Outline U. S. Government Program to Aid Oneidas In Hearing Before Board

What the federal government proposes to do for the Oneida Indians and why the town of Oneida objects to the plan for doing it were heard by the county board in the second day of its February session this morning. More arguments were slated for this afternoon's session.

The government proposes to purchase land in the town of Oneida which will be given to Indians in 20-acre tracts. Town officials and white residents of the town are objecting not only to purchase of some land on which the government now has options but are questioning the probabilities of success of the proposal as outlined at present.

The supervisors took no action on the problem this morning but were waiting for the conclusion of the arguments.

Speak For Government

Four speakers appeared for the government, M. L. Burns, Lake States Indian service, A. L. Hook, Minneapolis, land field agent for the department of the interior; Rex Barnes, Minneapolis assistant land field agent and Arthur B. Daniels, chief clerk of the Tonah Indian school.

Burns opened with an explanation of the Indian reorganization act, passed in 1934, pointing out that appropriations were made for purchase of land, organization, loan education and similar aids.

"It's your problem," Hook said. "We are not contesting anything and we want the cooperation of the town board and county board."

The land field agent said the Oneida case was the first launched by the government in which such a controversy had arisen and asserted that if there was dissatisfaction about the land selected for purchase the government officials would be "glad to talk it over."

$600 in Taxes

Purchase of the land on which the government now has options would take only about $600 a year from the Oneida tax receipts. The purpose of the plan, he said, is to make the Indians self supporting and to help them where they now reside is the best plan.

Barnes presented detailed statistics on the proposal, showing that the 860.94 acres under option were assessed at $23,680 and paid taxes of $608.42. This amount is divided $343.35 in town tax, $165.78 in county tax and $99.29 in county tax. The land in question involves about 176 per cent of the town's valuation. He also listed the proportion of school tax the land under option paid in various districts, generally a small percentage.

Daniels pointed out that the success of the plan depends on the land acquired for Indian use and explained that in addition to the land, the government will provide capital and supervision to assure its successful operation. The government also will pay reasonable tuition for Indian pupils in public schools, he said.

Would Help Town

A benefit to the town will arise from removal of Indians from the relief rolls under the government plan, he maintained. He also presented statistics on hospitalization.

Four Chief Recommendations in Committee's Findings

OWNERSHIP IS AIM

'We Can No Longer Postpone Action,' President Says

Washington —(P)— President Roosevelt told congress today that "action to provide security" for the nation's farm population is imperative.

Sending to the legislators a report of his special committee on farm tenancy, the chief executive declared that "we can no longer postpone action."

"Most Americans believe," Mr. Roosevelt said, "that our form of government does not prohibit action on behalf of those who need help."

The committee, he said, emphasized these necessities:

"First, action to open the doors of ownership to tenants who now have no requisite ability and experience, but who can become owners only with the assistance of liberal credit on long terms, and technical advice."

"Second, modest loans, with the necessary guidance and education to prevent small owners from slipping into tenancy, and to help the masses of tenants, croppers and farm laborers at the very bottom of the agricultural ladder increase their standards of living."

"Third, greater security, and begin the upward climb toward land ownership."

Retire Poor Land

"Fourth, the retirement by public agencies of land proved to be unsuited for farming, and assistance to the families living thereon in finding homes on good land."

"Fifth, cooperation with state and local agencies of government to improve the general leasing system."

The president said action along such lines "should furnish a sound basis for the beginning of a program for improving the present intolerable condition of the lowest income farm families."

He asserted that the only solution to the problem is "a nationwide program under federal leadership and with the assistance of states, counties, communities and individuals."

"Grave Problem"

Discussing the report the president said it revealed "a grave problem of great magnitude and complexity."

"The American dream of the family-size farm, owned by the family which operates it, has become more and more remote."

"The agriculture ladder, on which an energetic young man might ascend from hired hand to tenant to independent owner is no longer serving its purpose."

He pointed out that two of every five farmers are tenants while on some farm lands the ratio is as great as seven out of every ten farmers.

"The tenant population has been increasing at the rate of about 40,000 annually for 10 years, he said, observing that "the agriculture ladder, for these American citizens, has become a treadmill."

"When fully half the total farm population of the United States no longer can feel secure when millions of our people have lost their roots in the soil," Mr. Roosevelt said "action to provide security is imperative, and will be generally approved."

Must Seek Solution

Blaming the problem on long-time "unthinking exploitation of our agricultural resources, both land and people," the president asserted that work on a solution must begin at once "with such resources of man-power, money and experience as are available, and with such methods as will call forth the cooperation of all."

Conferences Seek Full Settlement In Labor Dispute

General Motors and U. A. W. Lay Groundwork For Negotiations

Detroit —(P)—Conferees of General Motors and the United Automobile Workers in a two-hour meeting today laid the groundwork for negotiations they expect will settle the final points at issue in the recent widespread automobile strikes.

The first actual negotiation, they decided, will be on the setting up of machinery nationally and locally for the handling of grievances brought to attention of corporation officials by union representatives.

Authoritative sources said the union officials has been assured that General Motors would move, as soon as necessary arrangements can be made, for dismissal of injunctions obtained by the corporation against sit-down strikers and union leaders.

William S. Knudsen, executive vice president of General Motors, said the conferees had made a preliminary survey of the demands outlined by Homer Martin, union president, in a letter Jan. 4.

The conferees agreed to meet daily at 9 o'clock a. m. and 1:30 p. m. (C. P. T.), each side to be represented by three officials, although others may join the group at times.

Lists Six Points

In his letter to corporation executives Jan. 4 Martin listed the six issues as follows:

"Abolition of all piece work systems of pay, and the adoption of a straight hourly rate in its place."

"Thirty-hour work week and six-hour work day, and time and one-half for all time worked over the basic work day and work week."

"Establishment of a minimum rate of pay commensurate with an American standard of living."

"Reinstatement of all employees who have been unjustly discharged."

"Seniority, based on length of service."

"Speed of production shall be mutually agreed upon by the management and the union committee in all General Motors plants."

Kaukauna Man Is Drunken Driver

Charles Hoffman Brought To Police by Victim In Accident

Brought to the police station by the driver of an automobile with which he collided, Charles Hoffman, 35, 612 W. Seventh street, Kaukauna, pleaded guilty of drunken driving when he was arraigned before Judge Thomas H. Ryan in municipal court this morning.

He was fined $50 and costs with an alternative of 90 days in the county detention camp and his driver's license was ordered revoked for one year.

A car driven by Hoffman and one operated by Chester Sawall 506 E. Randall street, were involved in a collision on Highway 41 at Little Chute about 8:30 last night. Hoffman failed to stop, but Sawall followed him to the east city limits of Appleton and then brought him to the station police reported.

One fender of the Sawall car was damaged but occupants of both machines escaped injury.

Nine Oil Executives Waive Extradition

New York —(P)—Nine of 14 prominent oil company executives were under bail of $5,000 each today for their appearance in federal court in Madison, Wis., March 3 to answer charges of conspiracy and violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

The executives pleaded not guilty yesterday and waived extradition before a United States commissioner.

They were Noel Robinson, vice president of Tide Water Oil company, R. D. Cottingham assistant to the president of the Texas company, Harry D. Freuau, vice president of the Empire Oil company, Frank R. Coates and H. E. Brandt, vice presidents of the Cities Service Export company, R. T. A. Van Der Woude, president of the Shell Union Oil corporation, W. S. T. Rodgers, president of the Texas company, H. W. Dodge vice president of the Texas company and Edward L. Shea, president of the Tide Water Oil company.

Hints Files Bare Of Data Dealing With Labor Spies

Motors Official 'Wouldn't Be Surprised' if Papers are Missing

Washington —(P)—Harry W. Anderson, General Motors corporation labor relations director, testified today that he "wouldn't be a bit surprised" if the firm's files had been "stripped" last June of all documents dealing with labor espionage. At that time the senate civil liberties committee launched its investigation.

Anderson said he knew that no such documents or detective reports were turned over to the committee in response to its subpoena.

He added he "went through" the files of William S. Knudsen, General Motors executive vice president, soon after the investigation was authorized but before the subpoena was served.

"What did you have in mind?" asked Chairman LaFollette (P-Wis.) "This investigation," Anderson replied, puffing coolly on a briar pipe.

He advised other General Motors officials to "strip" their files as well he said.

Has No Copies

"What about your own records?" LaFollette inquired.

"I've had enough experience that I don't put things in my files," Anderson said, smiling. "I used to keep copies of my correspondence, but I stopped that in about 1933."

LaFollette said senate investigators had obtained no information on labor spying from General Motors records, except invoices showing payment of $539,764 for detective services between 1934 and July 31, 1936.

Louis Seaton Anderson's assistant, readily admitted he had destroyed all detective reports in his possession shortly before the committee served its subpoena.

Merle C. Hale, former labor relations director for General Motors, testified he engaged the Pinkerton National Detective agency in March 1935, to find out "what was causing dissatisfaction" among his firm's employees.

Seven Convicts Elude Pursuers

North Carolina Felons Free Three Hostages Unharmed

Raleigh, N. C. —(P)—Coveys of state highway patrolmen on motorcycles, augmented by search parties on foot, apparently were balked by a blind trail today in their search for seven prison farm convicts who freed three hostages unharmed last night.

The trail was lost after the inmates of the Caledonia prison farm released Captain I. D. Hinton, W. L. Roberts, steward and Walter H. Willard, 19-year-old civilian near Pinehurst.

"They treated us mighty nice," said Hinton. "They didn't harm us at all. They didn't tie us up or hurt us. It was a terrible strain. It sure is a good feeling to be able to talk about that experience alive and unharmed."

Hinton was held up at pistol point by two prisoners yesterday in a cell block and marched to the arsenal where the convicts seized guns. Another prisoner held up a clerk to obtain blue denim clothing and others captured Roberts.

They fled toward the Virginia line in a truck stolen from the prison yard, the hostages related, but soon doubled back to Louisville where they took two automobiles and forced Willard to join them.

Frequently through the day the convicts stopped to buy motor fuel, cigarettes and food but left their hostages to go hungry.

Their flight was toward the South Carolina line in the afternoon, but they turned westward and put Hinton, Roberts and Willard out shortly after 7 o'clock. Willard was stripped of his trousers and overcoat.

Lindberghs Planning to Continue Aerial Tour

Cairo, Egypt —(P)—Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh laid plans today for continuation of their aerial sightseeing trip into Iran and possibly India.

They called at the Iran legation and obtained transit visas good only for a fortnight stop in Iran. Lindbergh also looked over his plane and ordered minor adjustments.

They planned a sightseeing trip about Cairo this afternoon, despite a minor sandstorm sweeping over the city.

Green Expulsion Is 'Hitlerism,' He Tells Reporters

'Committed No Act to Justify Treatment,' A. F. L. Chief Declares

Washington —(P)—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, assailed today as "Hitlerism" the order for his expulsion from his own union, the United Mine Workers.

"I won't take it lying down," he told reporters after the miners' international policy committee had accused him of "treason" in the General Motors strike and called on union officials to take away his membership.

"I have committed no act that would justify such treatment," Green said. "I think in Germany Hitler sends them to concentration camp, doesn't he, when they oppose his will? Here they expel you from your union."

John P. Frey, president of the federation's metal trades department, stepped to Green's side in the renewal of battling inside organized labor ranks.

"Strike Against A. F. L."

"The Automobile Workers' strike was much more than a strike against General Motors corporation," Frey said. "It was a strike against the American Federation of Labor and its affiliated international unions."

The auto strike was supported by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers and head of the committee for industrial organization, which is seeking to organize workers in each large industry into a single union.

Lewis and Green once were close allies in the miners' union but now are bitter foes. Green and other federation leaders favor organizing workers by separate crafts.

Woman Wounded, Man Found Slain in Home

Baltimore —(P)—Mrs. Lenora M. Viel, 37-year-old divorcee, was found in her home here today, critically wounded, with a dead man lying across her body. She told police she had lain in that position more than 12 hours.

Mrs. Viel had been snored below the heart. Police officers, summoned to the home by a phone call from an unidentified person, found her as snoring the morning occurred about 10:30 last night. She said the dead man was William Henry Armstrong.

Patrolmen Harry Miller and Orville Cook, Sergeant George Noyon responding to the mysterious telephone summons, broke in through a rear window and found Mrs. Viel on the floor of the front hall, her head on a pillow and Armstrong's head on her breast. A pocket-plat of revolver lay in the man's lap. The revolver contained one discharged and three loaded shells and another discharged shell lay nearby on the floor.

Mrs. Viel told the officers the man had called at her home last night and requested her to go out with him. When she refused, she said, he shot her, then killed himself.

Liberated on Bond in Pre-Repeal Still Case

Milwaukee —(P)—Paul Pruska, the second of four defendants in a pre-repeal alcohol distillery case, was arrested yesterday and released on $500 bond. Frank Grossman, who was arrested two weeks ago, was also freed on bond. Two others are at large. The still, with an estimated output of 5,000 gallons daily was raided Dec. 4, 1935, two days before repeal of alcohol and equipment valued at $50,000 was destroyed.

Censors are Denied Front Row Seats; Demand Pre-Views

Seattle —(P)—Theatre censors who recently asked for front row seats and got only accommodations in "peanut gallery," retaliated today. They bluntly demanded private pre-views of all shows booked here by Mrs. Cecilia Schultz, theatre manager. They asked the city council to warn Mrs. Schultz her license might be revoked if she failed to comply.

She had refused front row seats to the board on the grounds she was required by law to furnish only "proper" seats. The city attorney held that back-row balcony seats were "proper."

In their complaint to the council, censors pointed out they have legal authority to demand previews and cancel any attractions deemed unfit for public consumption.

Mrs. Schultz could not be reached for comment on whether she would have the Seattle Symphony orchestra, her next booking, play a private concert for the censors.

Nazis Yield on Church Question

First Major Defeat for Hitler's Program Seen In Capitulation

Berlin —(P)—Full capitulation of nazis to rebellious Protestant ministers was indicated today by Adolf Hitler's restoration of control to the Evangelical church electorate.

If the Hitler decree were carried out in accordance with an interpretation attributed to the Deutsches Nachrichtenbuero, the official news agency, it would mean the first major defeat for Hitler in his determination to bring all phases of life under totalitarian control of the nazi party.

In the face of a reported resurgence of opposition to dictatorship in church affairs—which already has caused ministers to suffer persecution—the reichsfuehrer empowered Hans Kerrl, reichsminister for church affairs, "to prepare for an election of a general synod" to direct evangelical church affairs.

Hitler admitted failure of a reich committee to bring about "unity in the German Evangelical church."

Seek Sender of Poisoned Cake After Woman and Six Children Become Ill

Richland Center, —(P)— District Attorney Sidney J. Hanson said he would open a John Doe investigation late today or tomorrow in an effort to learn who mailed a poisoned cake that made a Lone Rock spinster and six Lone Rock children ill.

A report from the state toxicologist at Madison, he said, stated the cake contained a poison.

Miss Gusta Heintz, a middle aged spinster who frequently shared food with her neighbors' children, received the cake two weeks ago and gave pieces to the five children of Arthur Vetter — Donald, Norma, Lorraine, Alice and Betty, all under 10 — and to Irma Erickson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Erickson.

The children and Miss Heintz all became ill shortly after eating the cake but have recovered.

When Miss Heintz received the cake, it was in a package bearing no return address and no clue to its sender.

Coroner's Jury Finds Shooting Accidental

Port Washington, Wis. —(P)—A coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death late last night in the shooting of Clarence A. Henkel, well-to-do Milwaukee insurance man.

Leonard Hawkins, caretaker of the Milwaukee river cottage near Mequon, Wis., where the shooting occurred early last Wednesday following a drinking party, was released. He had been held in the county jail here since Wednesday on an open charge pending the jury verdict.

Hawkins claimed Henkel was shot accidentally during a struggle for a shot gun. Hawkins said he was attempting to hide after Henkel became abusive.

Death of 15-Month Baby

Oneonta, N. Y. —(P)—Clyde Proctor, 27, was held on a second degree murder charge today after District Attorney Joseph Molinari quoted him as confessing he "snook to death" a 15-month-old baby "because it bit me."

Molinari said Proctor made his statement concerning the death of an infant son of Mrs. Thomas Hinkley last night in the presence of Chief of Police Frank N. Horton.

The prosecutor said Proctor had been rooming at the Hinkley house on the outskirts of the city.

Molinari said Proctor related that the baby "bit" him when he picked it up to stop it from crying.

DEAN HEILMAN DIES

Chicago —(P)—Ralph E. Heilman, 50, dean of the Northwestern university college of commerce, died today in the suburban Evanston hospital.

Tradition Holds Up Introduction Of Hundredth Bill

Lansing, Mich. —(P)—A tradition whereby the member introducing the 100th bill must pay the cost of a dinner for the entire group blocked the flow of new legislation in the Michigan state senate today.

The measure came after the ninety-ninth bill of the session had been dropped into the hopper. Senator D. Hale broke offered a resolution to waive the customary penalty and declare a sitdown strike against the tradition "because no senator is prosperous enough to pay for a mass dinner," but it was tabled last night. There are 32 members in the senate.

The house yesterday received a bill which would provide for state labor relations board to supervise and enforce collective bargaining between employers and employees. The measure, introduced by Representative Philip J. Rahol, Democrat, of Iron Mountain, provides appointment of the board by the governor with not more than one representative from any one political party.

Salary Ordinance For 1937 Adopted By City Council

Defer Action on Wages on Mechanics of Police, Fire Departments

Leaving the way open to make final wage adjustments for the master mechanics of the police and fire departments at a later meeting, the common council yesterday afternoon adopted the 1937 wage schedule.

Failing to come to a decision on the wage question of the mechanics, the council decided to wait for recommendations by the police and fire departments at a later meeting.

Purchase of a light truck for $558.55 from the Kaufman Auto Service recommended for the sewage disposal plant by the board of public works was approved. Mayor Goodland opened the wage question by stating that setting the salaries of the mechanics at $156.75 had caused dissension in the departments because the monthly salary was above that of the second assistant fire chief and police lieutenant. He advised against changing the classification of the mechanics. This would limit the wage adjustment to 50 per cent of the salary cut since 1930 and keep it in line with other adjustments in the departments.

Favors Raise
Alderman Harriman, member of the fire and water committee which recommended the change in classification that provided for a wage increase in addition to the 50 per cent cut restoration for the fire department mechanic, said the fire chief approved the raise. He added that any change in the classification for the police department mechanic should first be recommended by the police and fire committees.

Saying he had been always opposed to raising the pay of the fire department mechanic, Alderman Knutti pointed out that the mechanic in the street department was entitled to any increase that might be given to mechanics in other city departments.

Asked what his opinion in the matter was, Fire Chief McGillion said that the mechanic of the fire department also served as a fireman in addition to keeping the equipment in first class shape. The change in the classification, he said, was to bring the salary of the mechanic on par with that of the fireman.

Chief of Police Prim said the proposed change of classification had caused dissension in both departments. The mechanic of the police department also is a police officer and has been satisfactory as both, he said.

Adjourn Quiz Pending Search for Wreckage

Oakland, Calif.—(AP)—A government inquiry into the water plane crash of a United Airliner, which killed 21 people, was adjourned today because witnesses said the best evidence lies buried in San Francisco Bay.

Major R. W. Schroeder, department of commerce inspector, announced he would not re-open the hearing until a missing right wing and starboard motor have been recovered.

Pilots and co-pilots on the United Airliner Los Angeles-Oakland route which the veteran, A. R. Thompson was flying, asserted the plane's right wing must have crumpled as the big craft wheeled around over the bay a week ago tonight.

Christopher Pickup, a pilot since 1915, asserted that "when you find the wing and motor of that ship you will find out something."

Pilot C. R. Bowman, 33, Burbank, Calif., said Thompson "could not possibly have struck the water by accident."

Name 3 Students to Attend Rotary Meets

Walter Wriston, Thomas Marling and Harry Zerbel were chosen by the Appleton High school student council to represent the school at Rotary club meetings for the remainder of the school year. Each month one boy will be feted at all the Rotary club sessions and at the close of school the boys will present a program for club members and tell of their reaction to Rotary activities.

The council also heard reports for their last student dance and made plans for the regular spring dance. Fay Cohen, president, presided.

Lawyers Discuss New Supreme Court Plan

A general discussion of the proposed reorganization of the United States supreme court aroused such interest at the monthly meeting of the Outagamie Bar association at Hotel Northern Monday noon that the group decided to continue it at another meeting next Monday.

At this week's session, a number of attorneys stated that they would study the court reorganization proposals closely in preparation for the next meeting. About 20 were present at the luncheon.

Consulting Engineer Succumbs in New York

New York.—Charles Page Perin, 75, well known consulting engineer, died of pneumonia early today at his Park avenue home after an illness of several days.

Perin had been prominent for years in the steel and iron industries and was a pioneer in the development of manufacture of pure iron by electrolysis. He was head of the engineering firm that bore his name.

Initial Laboratory Tests Made at Plant

First tests with the new laboratory equipment were made today at the sewage disposal plant, according to C. O. Baetz, plant superintendent. Installation of the equipment was completed this week and first tests at the plant were made by William Gallaher, superintendent of the water department, and Claude Greish, deputy health officer, who are temporarily in charge of the chemistry department.

Office equipment is being installed in the administration building and will be completed within a few more days. No major difficulty has yet been encountered in operation of the plant which was started a month ago.

Pfefferle Talks About Notre Dame At Lions Meeting

Classes Sam Francis of Nebraska as Greatest Player

Tales of Notre Dame glory on the football field were recalled by Lions club members yesterday when Richard Pfefferle, former Appleton High school and Notre Dame star and now line coach at Loyola University at New Orleans, told of his experiences as a member of the Ramblers for three years.

"The most interesting thing which a person obtains as a football player are associations with players, coaches, teammates, fans and opponents," Pfefferle said.

Opponents vary with many attempting to talk you out of a game while others, such as the great Pittsburgh team, remain quiet and still play outstanding football, he said. Pfefferle classed the 9-6 victory of Notre Dame over Pittsburgh in 1935 as the toughest game he was ever in and described the players attitude as Marty Peters, end, went back to kick the game deciding field goal from the 28-yard line in the last three minutes of play.

Francis is Great
"Sam Francis, Nebraska fullback, is the greatest all-around player I have ever seen. He was a power on offense and backed up the line superbly on defense. The Nebraska line was only fair but Francis made it look like a great line. Bill Shakespeare of Notre Dame was the only kicker that I have ever seen who could outboot Francis," Pfefferle said.

Joe Stydhar, formerly of West Virginia and now of the Chicago Bears in the pro league, was classed as the best tackle the speaker saw. He told of practices for the all-star tilt last fall and of how Stydhar was able to smash through Danny Fortman of Colgate and Gryboski of the Illinois squad in drills.

Own Play is Great End
The best end, according to the speaker, was Leo Deutsch of his own St. Benedict's, Atchison, Kan. team last fall. Deutsch was picked as a member of the all-west squad in the annual Shrine charity east-west game and was later approached by all teams of the pro league, he said. Deutsch will coach ends at Loyola next fall.

In discussing coaches, Pfefferle classed Bennie Bierman of Minnesota as optimistic; Elmer Layden of Notre Dame as pessimistic; Lynn Waldorf of Northwestern as easy going and telling his team they always have a chance; Bo McMillan of Indiana as the kidding type who is liable to predict victory when his team was headed for a 40-0 lacing.

Defeat Army 21-0
During his sophomore year at college, Pfefferle figured that Notre Dame 21-0 victory over previously undefeated Army as the greatest and most interesting games of the season. In his junior year, it was the Navy's 10-6 victory over Notre Dame which was most interesting because the Ramblers gained more than 300 yards yet were unable to score until the final minutes of play.

The great offensive battle in which Notre Dame scored two touchdowns in the closing minutes of play for a 19-13 victory over Ohio State was the tops of his senior year. Pfefferle pointed out that Ohio was probably too keyed up due to pre game notices and being classed as the greatest college aggregation in history. He also said that Ohio passed the 50-yard line only twice on drives in the first half and once in the second half.

Talks of Trojan Game
Pfefferle described the officiating as "not so good" in the Southern California and Notre Dame game last fall when an official blocked out two Ramblers while a Trojan who had intercepted a pass continued on a 99-yard jaunt to a touchdown and a subsequent 13-13 tie even though Notre Dame had made 18 first downs compared to one for the Trojans.

H. O. Fenner of the Menasha Lions appeared at the meeting yesterday and asked the Appleton den to cooperate in staging the state Lions bowling tournament at Menasha this year.

'Jim Farley and His Friends' Meet at Washington Dinner

Washington.—(AP)—Praise from President Roosevelt, a turnout of 1,700 admirers, and an unexpected kiss brought momentary blushes to James A. Farley's round face, but left him today with memories of an unusual testimonial.

Democrats at odds over the administration cut program, prospective rivals for the 1940 presidential nomination, leaders of opposing factions in state politics—all sat together at dinner in the Mayflower hotel last night in tribute to "Jim."

Without mentioning the judiciary dispute, President Roosevelt emphasized he addressed the gathering not as "Fellow Democrats" but as "Fellow Americans who joined together last fall for principles we are seeking to establish."

"It is not a political gathering," he said slowly, "or a party gathering, or a victory gathering to hatch some mysterious plot or pull off a coup d'etat. The only label appropriate is 'Jim Farley and his friends.'"

To cheer, Mr. Roosevelt listed as attributes of Farley: public service, loyalty, honor and decency, good temper, courage and a sense of humor.

Called Major Prophet
The names of Maine and Vermont were booted laughingly in a state by state introduction of distinguished guests, but the president referred to Farley as a major prophet because of his prediction the Democrats would lose the white house.

Sporting a white carnation and acting at first as if it were only an other political rally, Farley soon was as red as the rose pinned on him after a kiss by Mary Dewson, vice chairman of the Democratic National committee.

"I've been accused of being a 'Farleyite,'" said Vice President Garner, on assuming the toastmaster's ship, "and I'm proud of it. There hasn't been a man in 50 years of Democratic history who even approached Jim's ability as an organizer."

Special tributes were paid to the postmaster general and Democratic chairman by Governors Murphy of Michigan, Earle of Pennsylvania and Rivers of Georgia, and by Major Kelly of Chicago.

Greetings given by the president to Murphy and Earle, who have been mentioned for the 1940 Democratic presidential nomination, attracted attention among the diners. The Michigan governor received congratulations from many for his success in settling the General Motors strike.

Madison.—Commercial fishermen of Northeastern Wisconsin are determined that Progressive campaign pledges for the creation of a bureau of fisheries independent of the conservation commission will be carried out. A bill to create a separate and independent fisheries bureau is now being drafted for presentation to the legislature on behalf of organized commercial fishermen, but there will likely be some difficulty in finding sponsors for the measure in the assembly and senate.

The proposal is a delicate one, and it is understood that the legislative representatives of the northeastern fishing counties will be wary on it. According to report young Senator Michael Kresky, Green Bay Progressive beginning his first term in the upper house, will be asked to introduce the bill. Reports via the grapevine indicate that the youthful Kresky is not anxious to start his senate career with a measure which is almost certain to stir up a great deal of controversy. Last session fish conservation legislation proved to be among the most difficult to be acted upon. At that time Senator E. F. Brunette, Kresky's predecessor, took the lead in pressing the fishermen's bills.

Senator Herman J. Severson of Iowa has been called upon by Editor Evjue of Madison, editorial big gun of the Progressive party, to introduce legislation protesting "an inalienable Nordic right," on behalf of the Norwegian Protective Lutfisk association. Said Evjue to Severson: "It is getting so that a 100 per cent blow-in-the-bottle Norwegian can't get into a Lutfisk supper anymore without having to do an off table smash through a crowd of Yankees, Irish and Germans. Our birthright is being threatened."

Senator Severson will shortly be busy with far more serious matters, for the labor disputes bill, of which he is joint author, will pass the assembly soon and reach the upper house. "The Wausau county member will be expected to assume leadership in pushing the bill which labor hails as its 'Magna Charta.' If the plans of the non-Progressive salons are reported correctly, it will be a big job, for conservatives feel that the measure as it now stands is far from equitable or complete."

The merciless badgering of Senator Roland E. Kannenberg of Wausau continues in the senate when there is nothing else to do. Debate on Kannenberg's bill to give Wausau a branch of the university last week proceeded in an unparliamentary manner as can be imagined. Kannenberg's tormentors, led by Senators Phil Nelson, Harry Bolens and Joseph Clancy, threw the house into such a maze of motions and counter motions that the presiding officer, Lieut. Gov. Henry Gunderson, was hopelessly confused.

Kannenberg accuses his fellow members of interfering "personally" into debate while at the same time he refers to the "gutter" tactics of whoever happens to be opposing him at the moment. His opponents he contemptuously dismisses as "reactionaries."

The Wausau extension division bill was an undisputed comedy, with discussion becoming so informal that one member, yielding to a question from another, referred with "Who wants to know." Many feel that if Mr. Kannenberg remains in the senate, that house will lose its standing as the most dignified in the legislature.

There has yet been no indication that the 30 hour week labor bill will be reintroduced at this session, although some legislators expect that another attempt will be made. The 1935 legislature killed the measure, which was sponsored in the lower house by former Assemblyman William Bay, Kaukauna Progressive.

The recent gift of $10,000 by William E. Hatton to the city of New London for a park recalls to Madison political writers that New London philanthropist was a prominent figure in state political circles 20 years ago. Hatton was not only a leader of the Progressive Republicans in the state senate, but as a candidate for both the Republican nomination for United States senator and governor was supported by the late Robert M. LaFollette. As a member of the legislature Mr. Hatton took a leading part in the drafting and passage of LaFollette legislation two decades ago.

The greatest interest of Alvin A. Handrich, Manawa assemblyman, are agriculture and money, on both of which, his official Blue Book biography says, has made special studies.

Two years ago Handrich unsuccessfully sponsored a bill which would have required state schools to teach banking in the United States, and in preparation for the measure he obtained special permission from the federal department of justice to make photographs of the currency in use in the United States, which is ordinarily forbidden by federal laws. These photographs, now reposing in a vault in the office of Theodore Dammann, secretary of state, may yet be dug out during this session, for it is unlikely that Handrich will abandon his favorite project, the education of Wisconsin school children in monetary matters.

Manitowoc county's two representatives in the assembly, Francis A. Yindra, Democrat, and David Sigman, Progressive floor leader so far this session, are not on the best of terms.

Yindra's indignation rose high a few days ago when Sigman opposed C. A. Budlong's resolution for a popular referendum on the question of non-partisan elections. According to Yindra, Sigman's opposition is inconsistent with his earlier support of the initiative and referendum measure in the assembly, and the Progressive party's support of the referendum idea.

Potpourri: Some Fox River Valley legislators are worrying because they are not getting any letters from their constituents. Even on the labor bill, they complain, mail is light.

Senator John E. Cashman of Denmark has a habit of dropping in where he is not expected. The other day he appeared at a meeting of the assembly highway committee hearing proposals to reduce license fees and gasoline taxes. Armed with a mass of figures and statistics gathered in his 15 year service in the legislature, Cashman couldn't resist refutation of some of the arguments of the automobile and gasoline dealers. If Charles Hill, one of the commissioners of the department of agriculture and markets, feels uncomfortable under Senator Cashman's repeated lashings, he is giving no sign of it. Asked whether he had a reply to Cashman's recent criticisms of his department, he said only, "I have nothing to say."

Assemblyman Frank Graess' professional background crept out the other day when, speaking against the labor bill, he remarked, "A tree which grows slowly is sound timber." Graess in private life is a forester.

Kaukauna Mayor Asks Sale of Paper Company Property

Tells County Board Several Persons Interested In Defunct Mill

What Board Did:

- Launched hearing on proposed land purchases for Oneda Indians. (Story on Page 1.)
- Heard appeal by Mayor Nielsen of Kaukauna for action on paper mill property.
- Raised pay of supervisors to $3 per day.
- Defeated proposed appointment of committee with power to have plans drawn for new courthouse.
- Instructed district attorney to collect poor claims against municipalities.

An appeal for action by the Outagamie county board to force a sheriff's sale of the Outagamie Paper company property at Kaukauna was urged at the board session this morning by Mayor John Nielsen of Kaukauna.

Mayor Nielsen said no taxes have been paid on the property for six years and that the amount now due the county is more than $65,000.

"If the county loses the money it will be on your heads," he told the supervisors.

The mill has not been in operation for two years and now has no fire insurance, no sprinkler system in operation, and no watchman, he stated. Should the building be destroyed by fire, the land, assessed at $12,000, would be the only asset on which the county could recover.

There are three or four prospective buyers and if a clear title to the property is provided by county action, the mill might be placed in operation again, provide employment and return to the tax roll.

The board took no immediate action.

Pay Increased
A resolution to increase the pay of supervisors from $4.50 a day to $5 was passed this morning, 33 to 2.

Supervisor Bonini, Appleton, was the only supervisor who raised an objection to the plan before a vote was taken.

The proposed appointment of a 5-man committee to investigate courthouse and jail conditions and which would have authority to have plans drawn for a new building, was killed this morning by a 37 to 2 vote.

Two sheriff's committee resolutions, one to disallow certain 1936 bills totaling $204.90 and to pay $84.30 and the other instructing the committee to investigate 1935 accounts of the department, were passed today. Supervisor Bottensack explained that the disallowed bills were for deputy services inside the county. The salary ordinance provides, he said, that the sheriff pay his own deputies.

Steps necessary to collect about $26,000 due the county from municipalities in poor claims was the center of considerable discussion after a resolution providing for employment of an attorney for four months at $200 a month for the job was introduced.

On suggestion of District Attorney Raymond P. Dohr, the district attorney's office will begin work on the collections. Whether additional help will be employed will be determined at the May session.

Bonds of asylum, detention camp, sanatorium and normal school trustees were set at $1,000 each.

ROOSEVELT JUNIOR IZAAK WALTON LEAGUERS BUILD BIRDHOUSES

As part of their conservation program, members of the junior Isak Walton league at Roosevelt school have prepared the birdhouses shown above. About 75 houses have been completed and it is expected that more than 150 will be built by spring. The best houses will be entered in the Isak Walton birdhouse building contest. William Pickett, athletic director at the school, is in charge of the Roosevelt club. Regular meetings are held by members each week with discussion centered each time on one particular type of conservation. During the winter, club members built bird feeding hoppers and placed them in Center swamp. Since that time delegations have kept the hoppers filled through cooperation with the game wardens. ## Farmers Charge Buyers of Grain Victimizing Them

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)

Madison—Complaints of Outagamie and Brown county farmers that grain buyers are victimizing them in the measurement and weighing of grain bought on the farm have been forwarded to the department of agriculture and markets by Assemblyman William Rohan of Kaukauna and William Sweeney of De Pere.

According to Rohan and Sweeney, buyers of barley from farmers in those two counties have violated state statutes in measuring 50, and sometimes 52 pounds to a bushel, whereas state law provides that 48 pounds shall constitute a bushel of barley. Rohan reported that one farmer in his second Outagamie county district lost over $40 in a recent transaction through this practice.

Rohan and Sweeney conferred with Harry Kluefer, chief of the dairy and foods division of the department of agriculture and markets, Monday. Kluefer told the assemblymen that farmers who have knowledge of this practice should report the fact to the department, which is empowered by law to investigate and prosecute. However, he pointed out, if the grain buyers have a written contract with the farmers selling barley providing for more than the legal 48 pounds to a bushel, the department is powerless to act.

Assemblyman Rohan and Sweeney have been considering introducing a bill in the legislature to prevent cheating of farmers selling grains, but were informed that present statutes adequately cover the problem.

Warns of Dangers From Auto Gas

Safety Group Told Million Drivers are Endangered Daily

There are a million automobile drivers on the highways every day who are groggy from carbon monoxide gas, Stanley Braun, associated with the Cities Service Oil company, told the Outagamie County Street and Highway Safety council at the courthouse Monday evening.

Tests in nine states revealed that in 6 per cent of the cars examined, a dangerous amount of carbon monoxide gas entered the passenger compartments, and that in 66 per cent of the cars, large amounts of the gas were produced.

Three parts of gas in 10,000 parts of air have an effect on the driver and 15 parts are fatal, he explained.

Deaths from the gas are due largely to engine maladjustment, defective exhaust equipment or openings in the body of the car.

Braun suggested that motorists, on long trips, step out of their cars every two hours and breathe fresh air for about 10 minutes. He also cautioned against following too closely behind trucks and buses.

Realty Transfers

Value of Scout Program Related By Herb Heilig

Former Valley Council President Discusses Part Catholic Church Plays

Emphasizing the good things the Catholic church has done to aid the scout movement, Herb Heilig, a former president of the Valley Council, Boy Scouts of America, discussed the value of scouting during a court of honor last night for Troop 5 at the St. Therese parish hall. The scout movement, he said, is a challenge to youth and manhood of today.

Scouting takes the boy by the hand and ushers him into manhood, Heilig said, amid clean and wholesome surroundings. It eliminates questionable meeting places and gives the boy fun "free from petticoat influence in the wholesome atmosphere of the parish meeting place."

Walter G. Dixon, Valley council executive, discussed the efforts of Valley council and praised the troop committee and scoutmaster for the growth of Troop 5 and its outstanding activities during the last eight years. The Rev. M. A. Hauch expressed pleasure at the progress of the troop and explained its worth to the parish.

Following the talks, a candle-light ceremony was held to induct a number of boys into the tenderfoot rank of scouting. Members of the troop are Francis Fischer, Delmar Schwallier, Richard Mollineau, Eugene Weyenberg, Martin Brock, Robert Jacobs, William Mack, Francis Cook, Donald Jacobs, T. ## It Is Said--

That Fred Gehrke, manager of the Wisconsin State Employment Bureau Service office, established a reputation as a champion cake eater last night at the pot luck supper given to the Onca Johnston post of the American Legion by the auxiliary at the Odd Fellows hall. It was unofficially reported that he consumed eight pieces and was still looking for more.

Americanism Had Its Beginning in Mayflower Pact

Theory Founded by Men Seeking Personal Liberty

"The theory of Americanism is that the state is for the government of the people," Stanley Staidl, Appleton attorney, said in a talk on "Americanism" before a joint meeting of the auxiliary and the Onca Johnston post, American Legion, at the Odd Fellows hall last night.

"Self government and personal liberty are the two points involved in the theory which had its beginning in a voluntary pact made by a group of men on the Mayflower who came to America seeking those things," he said.

Triple security for them found in the setup of the government through the legislative, executive and judicial branches, he explained. Each branch is a guardian in its own field and is independent of the other.

The present attack upon the supreme court, he said, is not the first made upon it and mentioned one made during the Civil war.

Compares Governments
He compared the government to those of Russia, Italy and Germany where, he said, the people lived for the state with one man at the helm.

Russia is a group of republics in name only while Hitler in Germany has more power than any Kaiser ever had, he said.

The constitution provides for a dual system of government, federal and state, he explained. The federal government exercises those powers given to it while the state administers those not given to the federal government.

Cases where even almost meaningless remarks were construed as treason to the king of England and resulted in men being sentenced and hanged were revealed by the speaker. He also told of a case in the Civil war where remarks were made against the government and the resulting death sentences of the men involved were set aside by the supreme court as illegal.

Shows Difference
The difference of these cases mark the difference between the government of the United States, which promotes and perpetuates Americanism, and those of other countries where the people live for the state, he said.

He related the events leading up to the revolution and claimed that the stamp act, which provided for a tax against the colonies to keep armies stationed in them, was the "straw that broke the camel's back." William Pitt opposed the act on the grounds that it was taxation without representation and this cry was later taken up by the colonies, he said.

A hard-time party will be sponsored by the auxiliary the week following Easter, it was announced. A pot luck supper at which members of the Legion post were guests was held preceding the meeting. Cards were played after the meeting.

Mrs. Herbert Farrand was chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements for the party. Cards were played after the short business meeting of the auxiliary, prizes going to Mrs. Martha Suchy at bridge, F. Landry at schafskopf, Henry F. Bauer at skat, and Mrs. Harvey Priebe at five hundred rummy. About 125 persons attended.

Probe Reported Attack on Wife Of Navy Officer

Physician's Statement Adds To Mystery in Honolulu Case

Honolulu — (AP)—Police Captain Don Hays said today he "expected to have a statement soon" concerning the sensational report by a United States navy officer's wife that she was dragged 75 feet across an open yard into a garage and criminally assaulted.

A physician's statement that two examinations indicated she had "not been attacked added a baffling angle to the story told by Mrs. Bennett S. Copping, 24—an account in some respects resembling Honolulu's island-rocking Massie case.

Both Mrs. Copping and her navy lieutenant husband told police she was attacked by an unidentified white man when she left her hotel room early yesterday.

In the Massie case, involving a socially prominent family, the attack on a navy lieutenant's wife was followed by the murder of a native and the manslaughter conviction of the woman's husband, her mother and two enlisted men.

Dr. Henry M. Akina, assistant city-county physician, said after two examinations that Mrs. Copping had not been attacked.

Captain Hays said Mrs. Copping's throat, lower arms and feet were bruised. He ordered a search for a man described by the lieutenant's wife as dark-skinned, tall and wearing dark trousers and a grey sweater.

Handkerchief Found
The officer attached some importance to a handkerchief bearing the initial "H," which was found in the garage. He ordered it examined to determine if it contained navy laundry marks.

Police also attempted to locate a woman known to Mrs. Copping as Dolores De Beck.

Mrs. Copping told officers she and her husband attended a party Sunday at the Pearl Harbor navy base but Lieutenant Copping, commander of the submarine S28, returned without her to their hotel in the residential district late in the afternoon. She related that later she, Dolores De Beck and two men she believed were connected with the navy, also returned to the Copping apartment where they had drinks. Lieutenant Copping was asleep.

About midnight the other three members of the party left. Early in the morning she went out of their first floor room to go to a washroom, she was quoted as saying. Her asserted assailant was standing at the end of the hallway, grabbed her without saying a word and dragged her to the garage.

After the alleged assault, officers said she told them the man asked her, "are you all right?" then fled.

Mrs. Copping, Captain Hays said, told her husband of the assault and he finally called police.

"THE KING CAN DO NO WRONG"

There is high glee in the Brown House at Munich and the ancient halls at Potsdam ring with German laughter, for Herr Hitler has been passed, and Nazi Subalterns, pleased enough with their accomplishments, concede that they did not dare take the bold steps with their courts at the outset that Mr. Roosevelt has already proposed at Washington. Dictators, like misery, love company.

Has the world so soon forgotten the Reichstag Fire trial, how General Goering in full regalia and spattered with medals was sent to the witness stand to officially inform the judges that the rulers of Germany wanted the accused persons convicted, and how he failed of his purpose?

The world should not soon forget that the German judges added eternal laurels to the independence and honor of the judiciary by turning their backs upon the rude and insolent demand and calmly announced that every accused person was released for lack of evidence, excepting the one who confessed.

True, soon thereafter Hitler ordered the formation of a People's Court, so named contemptuously because the people had nothing to do with it, and upon this Court he put brown-shirted emissaries who have flouted all the age-old rules and customs of courts by holding sessions in secret that the people may not know the sort of evidence upon which reliance is placed for the final court order or judgment.

Our President is certainly not a Hitler, either in purpose or manner, but his designs upon the Courts are actuated by the same motives that move all men of dictatorial tendency—the conviction that independent bodies that do not believe with them must be out of step with the time and the Nation.

Mr. Roosevelt's actions are as gall and wormwood to Senator Borah. They have the taste of silver nitrate to Senator Johnson. Senator Norris says they are bad and that he will "make no bones about his opinion."

Even these friends of the President, supporters of many of his policies, outspoken Liberals and Independents, have no stomach for a plan that sinks a deep axe into one of the staunch roots that has made possible the weathering of so many storms by this great nation.

Mr. Roosevelt's plan has some of the earmarks of the pink tea. It has some of the innocence of youths playing at war. But back of it all we must realize that the President has the purpose of ridding the Supreme Court of certain particular men or diluting their authority, and that instead of going directly to the people with such an important proposition, he is following a plan that looks more devious than candid.

Does any one suppose that Mr. Roosevelt would ever have suggested this plan if the Court had upheld his pet policies? Would he, indeed, have cared a snap then were the Judges even all 100 years old?

GOVERNMENTS AND STRIKES

An English economist lecturing in this country, asked what would be done in England about a sit-down strike, replies that the government would take it in hand. This would be done under a national law enacted a few years ago, controlling both capital and labor, after a general strike that almost paralyzed the country.

And what would the government do when it took charge of the situation? Probably, says the English authority, it would "withdraw civil immunity of funds from the involved union and allow it to be sued in court for all damages of the strike." The employers would be held liable, too, for any breach of the rules proved against them.

Such procedure, to Americans, is almost inconceivably drastic. It recalls the famous Danbury Hatters' case, in which the Hatters' Union was sued, under the Sherman Anti-Trust Act, for a boycott it conducted against the company in an effort to unionize the shop. The suit lasted 14 years and was carried to the Supreme Court three times, and ended with an award against the strikers which ruined most of them.

There has been no repetition of that experience. But there is talk nowadays of solving the chaotic American labor problem by making both capital and labor responsible to each other, and to the public, for playing their part fairly and peacefully in the industrial system.

This responsibility would imply the complete organization of labor as well as capital, with government having final authority over both. It would be a large assumption of power, but might be necessary some time to prevent industrial chaos.

"A STITCH IN TIME"

With Mississippi flood crests lowering and danger of new levee breaks apparently lessening, criticism of flood relief plans is heard. It is charged that Washington orders to the Army high command to prepare for the removal of a half million persons living within 50 miles of the river from Cairo to New Orleans were ill-advised and that the orders unnecessarily alarmed dwellers along the river. The criticism includes some newspapers and radio stations for their "sensationalism" in the handling of flood news.

The person who lives outside the flooded areas is likely to think that such criticism is unfair and unwarranted. He will wonder what might have been the consequence of failure to prepare for the evacuation of those scores of thousands of persons who were menaced as flood crests continued to rise. The experience of Louisville, of Cincinnati, even of Memphis, was not one that was likely to allay the fears of those charged with the protection of lives.

It is probably true that some newspapers and some radio stations made capital of flood developments. But these purveyors of information also performed a real service. Some flood victims escaped death because radio men took over the task of directing rescue efforts. Thousands of flood refugees are clothed and fed because the sympathies of a nation have been aroused by newspapers descriptions of their need.

Nature's vagaries are unpredictable. Men, at best, can but pit his puny strength against Nature's forces. He is best armed when he is forearmed. It is entirely understandable that fortunate ones who escape the river's threat may believe there was no real need to cause panic. It is difficult to believe the Army's preparations were made with this end in view. Rather, there is reason to believe the Army carried out its preparations as insurance against any eventuality.

Criticism of the Army's preparations probably is the natural expression of the reaction that follows a period of strain.

STANDARD LAWS ARE NEEDED

Efforts to curb the steadily mounting toll of traffic deaths are handicapped by the fact that only twenty states and the District of Columbia have standard drivers' license laws.

Almost a dozen nationally recognized safety organizations are seeking to secure, through legislation, standard laws for all the states. Their task is one of education. When the public is convinced of the need for such legislation the authority will have been found.

The need is obvious. There are wide discrepancies in requirements that must be fulfilled by persons who seek to secure licenses to operate motor vehicles. These discrepancies are found not alone when laws of one state are compared with those of another. They are found within boundaries of states which have no standard laws. The requirements of one municipality may be more severe than those of a sister city. The consequence is that persons who should not be licensed to operate motor vehicles continue to menace the lives of others.

Standard drivers' license laws will not remove all highway hazards but they will be an important factor in limiting accidents. Too many persons are licensed to operate motor vehicles who are physically or mentally unqualified for the task. Until it is made impossible for these persons to secure licenses, they will continue to be one of the more serious traffic problems.

The twenty states which have uniform regulations are California, Connecticut, Delaware, Idaho, Iowa, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Utah, Vermont, Virginia, Washington and West Virginia.

These twenty states have set an example that other states would do well to follow.

DISTRACTING NEWS

Soviet newspapers used to be pretty dull reading to any but a fanatical Communist. The first few pages were devoted to government plans for agriculture or industry, planting programs, and so on. There were no illustrations.

Today, says Walter Duranty, both Izvestia and Pravda are livened with pictures and cartoons. There are photographs of skiers, cyclists and others. There are actually news stories about other countries. There are snappy editorials.

It is a good thing to put more news in newspapers. Pictures nowadays are considered essentials. An outsider, however, cannot help wondering whether these publications are being made readable and attractive for a dual purpose, one of which would be to distract readers' attention from the strangeness of the treason trials going on there.

While those curious trials and wholesale executions continue, the outside world finds it hard to believe that the U. S. S. R. really is as successful and hopeful as it professes to be.

THE departure of Coach Murray from Marquette is regretted by many who know him, I see in the papers, and it came as quite a distinct surprise to most people . . . as long as he was leaving, however, he couldn't have picked a better year . . . his teams have done admirably and he has produced a flock of football victories for Marquette, including the ones most satisfactory to Marquette followers—wins over the University of Wisconsin coming up, however, is a season which may be extremely sour from the Marquette viewpoint . . . the boys who made good for the Hilltop will be missing, almost to a man . . . the opportunity for state prestige by beating Wisconsin again is practically nil since the Badgers, who came close last year, will be considerably tougher in the fall than they have been in several years and are likely to dish out the worst shellacking Marquette has received in Madison since back when . . .

Marshfield

—DEE JAY CEE

That's a matter of about seventeen years, and it is reasonable to suspect that any one or more of the trio will be gone by that time. In fact, it will be amazing to see any of them around. Those who might be alive by that time will be nearly seventy or older, and seventy, according to Mr. Roosevelt (who will be 72 then himself), is a very bad age at which to be in public affairs.

People forget that those in charge of affairs also are mortal and can't stick around forever. That, to me, is one of the big dangers of the proposed Supreme Court packing. A supreme court that could be arranged to approve all New Deal measures could also later be arranged to approve anything that a president of the caliber of John L. Lewis or Hugh Johnson might decree.

Or, in the event of a wave of reaction, it could also—as Senator Wheeler pointed out—be packed to support anything that a president of the Harding class might advocate. That means all of the good things that have come out of the Roosevelt administration could be lost without also losing the bad things.

Former King Edward has decided to sell his palace at Sandringham—a place which belonged to his father until George V died—back to Queen Mary. That, if you start to figure it out, is a pretty fancy piece of finance.

A Verse for Today

A LITTLE BOY WHO LOVED THE SUN

A little boy who loved the sun
 Followed its pathway to the skies,
 And paused to rest his roving dome
 On the green slopes of Paradise.

I would not with my futile fears
 Disturb his rest, which is so deep.
 There is a silence in high spheres
 When little children fall asleep.

A little boy who had no time
 For evil thoughts lest suddenly
 Already angel, a short climb
 Was his to reach Infinity.

For strength to bear this blow I pray,
 Lest I should grieve this shining one
 Who wandered past the edge of day
 Into the wake of his last sun.

MARRIAGE SAFEGUARDS

Application for the annulment of a marriage in which the participants were at the time of their wedding aged respectively 17 and 15 roused indignation in the judge addressed, Judge Joseph David, an indignation which the community will share. "They're marry babies in Crown Point," he said, "just as long as the clerk gets his fee." Drunk or sober, just out of swaddling clothes or on the edge of the grave, it seems to be all one to him.

But is it all one to the people or to the legislature of Indiana? Isn't it time for them to face this evil and correct it? We are not self-righteous in the query. Illinois has not yet put its laws of marriage in order. But it is moving. Judge Desort sponsors a measure requiring three days' notice before the issuance of a license to marry, though a similar bill was defeated in 1935, through the influence, it was said, of twenty county clerks who alleged the need of their county for revenue. We trust that point of view will not prevail at this session. Illinois must have this protection and Indiana needs it even worse. As Judge David remarked with justifiable disgust, no license to marry is required in Indiana. Obviously it should be, and with adequate safeguards such as the requirement of several days' notice before issuance.

We hope the civic intelligence of our neighbor state will not delay in this matter, which is an old scandal too long tolerated. She has preceded Illinois in attacking blackball litigation and with us should now abolish the "gin wedding" and consider safeguards which will prevent such misadventures as Judge David has rebuked.—Chicago Tribune.

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

COLD AND ARTHRITIS

From the experience of generations of people everywhere, plumps an eminent medical professor in a recent address before a national medical society, there can be no doubt that exposure to cold or wet or being overheated, or excessive cooling of the extremities particularly after wetting of the feet or sitting in a draft, will in most subjects cause nasal obstruction, sneezing and watery secretions.

True, indeed and isn't it annoying? But the subject of the doctor's address was "The Common Cold," and in the circumstances one is justified in assuming that "the common cold" is some kind of illness, otherwise why was the eminent physician discussing it? The universal experience cited by the speaker, or as much of it as one can collect and analyze is convincing on this point, namely, that only rarely does the individual who suffers such nasal obstruction, sneezing and watery secretions from exposure to cold or wet or both develop any illness. Ninety-nine times out of a hundred the annoying obstruction, stuffiness, sneezing or running at the nose clears away and is forgotten within an hour or less if the victim can get out of the draft or get warmed up again one way or another.

The professor concluded his address with a strange appeal: "Since it is apparent that no rational means are available to prevent or treat the common cold on the basis of the hypothesis of infectious origin, isn't it timely to go back to fundamentals and start anew?" That is, go back to the views physicians held in the nineteenth century and before, that most common ailments come from bad weather and that's all there is to it. If that was a satisfactory view, however, the medical profession today is so far away from the dear old fundamentals.

Students of arthritis or "rheumatism" have not yet found rational means to prevent or treat the disease or diseases so designated on the basis of the hypothesis of infectious origin, and probably the majority of physicians still accept with little question the "experience" of generations of people everywhere that cold and dampness are causes.

If a person is subject to any form of arthritis, or "rheumatism" if you insist, cold is almost certain to make him suffer more and warmth as certainly keeps him comfortable. Arthritis patients nearly always do better in summer than in winter, in a warm climate than in a cold one, in a dry region than in a damp one. But this is not a peculiarity of arthritis or "rheumatism." It applies as well to most of the ills flesh is heir to.

Speaking as plain old Doc Brady, acute arthritis or "rheumatism," other than infections (caused by bacterial invasion of joint tissues) is inconceivable to my mind, and there are only three specific types or forms of chronic arthritis or "rheumatism," namely, infectious, nutritional and traumatic. Cold or dampness is not a cause of any form of arthritis or "rheumatism," though warmth and dryness always gives sufferers the most comfort or relief.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Tonsils and Quinsy

Two doctors said my infected tonsils cause quinsy. One says no, and that I'll get it again even if I have the tonsils removed. . . . (Mrs. A. R.) Answer—Quinsy is abscess in the tissues around the tonsil. The infection probably enters through the tonsil. Removal of the tonsils usually usually puts an end to the annual attacks of quinsy.

Raw Meat

You said you like cats—my cue to ask you whether raw meat or cooked meat is best to feed a cat. . . . (Mrs. M. E. C.)

Answer—Raw meat by all means. A cat fed exclusively on cooked meat declines in health and condition, cannot rear her young. A cat fed raw meat regularly remains in good condition, competently nurses and raises her young.

NON-PARTISAN ELECTION

Editor Post-Crescent—For one to advance or support a principle that would prove fundamental to the establishment of clean government, both local and state, under a dictatorship would be considered an act of high treason; and the punishment for such an act under a dictatorship—well, we need only to recall recent events to decide what this punishment would be.

But here in Wisconsin and America we humans are more considerate of human life, being read out of your party or having a committee of self-styled dictators demand your resignation because you dare to disagree with their theory of what constitutes good government is no disgrace when one considers his head has been spared, so here goes for a little airing of a few legislators, who call themselves Progressives, and then betray the principle of that title because they fear their political future.

A few days ago in our legislature at Madison a Republican assemblyman by the name of Charles Budlong of Marinette, Wis., introduced a resolution to be enacted into law, that would require all county and legislative officers to be elected on a nonpartisan basis. Strangely, Mr. Budlong disclaims any credit for this resolution. He hurries to add that he only acts by request.

At the same time we have an assemblyman by the name of Martin Frankowiak of Milwaukee, a Democrat, introducing a bill to repeal Milwaukee's nonpartisan election laws.

It is understood that before these bills or resolutions are acted upon they are received by a committee known as the "elections committee," consisting of a Democrat and two Progressives or so-called. The Democrat being the sponsor of the last named resolution, the Progressives being David Sigman of Two Rivers and Herman Wegner of Milwaukee, who classifies himself as a Farm-Labor-Progressive-Socialist, either of the three—whichever necessity demands. Incidentally Assemblyman Sigman may be placed in this category, since he is a paid-up member of the Farm-Labor-Socialist Federation, a dual organization within the Progressive Party.

Mr. Frankowiak's argument in support of repeal of Milwaukee's nonpartisan election laws is that when an officer is elected on that basis he is obligated to no one and has no responsibilities, in other words the motive behind repeal of the resolution to place all county and legislative offices on a nonpartisan basis is to give the Socialist party more power in Milwaukee elections in the first case, and the danger of loss of political influence of a dictatorial group on the other hand. Mr. Sigman of Two Rivers comes to the support of the Milwaukee Democrat to add his word against the resolution of Budlong to say, I quote, "If nonpartisanism is good for the city it is good for the state, and I say it is good for neither." He further states, "They now have in Milwaukee a type of partisanship which deprives the mayor of his appointive power," unquote, a bold admission of purpose on his part, I venture to say.

On the contrary, Joseph Padway, a prominent Progressive of Milwaukee, who just recently was asked to resign as a member of this Farm-Labor-Socialist Federation because he refused to do the bidding of this group of Socialists, who call themselves Progressives, had the following to say in support of his city's election law, I again quote, "Nonpartisan government has worked well and has caused Milwaukee to be known as one of the best governed cities in the United States." Unquote. The city council bears out his statement by a vote of 20 to 5 against repeal of the nonpartisan law.

So to those Progressives who would be liberal enough to advance the true principles of our party by urging enactment of this proposed law to put all county and legislative offices on a nonpartisan basis, I would say, if I have any knowledge of public sentiment regarding this issue, the general question in a discussion of this new proposal is, after all, why should a county sheriff, clerk, register of deeds, district attorney, clerk of circuit court, coroner or legislative officer be designated by a party label? The only possible answer would be that each candidate has a certain following that is always attractively eyed at a fall election by state and national candidates.

If our legislators, Progressives, Democrats, Republicans, Socialists, or what have you, are actually sincere in what they have to say regarding the huge costs of government operations, here is an opportunity to tackle the problem in a genuine way.

It would seem that in this proposal there lies an opportunity for some one, out of that body of one hundred and thirty three legislators, to come to the front without fear and champion : cause that sooner or later is destined to become a reality.

Yours for Progress,
D. H. Larson

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—It is just as well that constituents of house members do not see them too often as they go about their business on the floor. Their sheep-pen method of recording legislative decisions might enliven doubts about the high purpose inspiring them.

The house is confronted with the handicap of great numbers and has adopted the shouting of ayes and noes, the standing vote and the teller vote as means of avoiding time-consuming rolls calls, each of which eats up nearly an hour.

But frequently in deciding even an amendment to a bill the house will employ all of the first three, and occasionally will be forced to the further delay of a roll call of its 435 members after all.

Twice within a half hour's debate on the $895,000,000 deficiency bill the house lumbered through the voice vote, the standing vote and the teller vote to dispose of a single amendment.

The teller vote arouses spectators to the most candid remarks about the house's legislative processes.

Procedure

This is about how the machinery works: The speaker puts the question to the house: "Aye," shout those in favor. "No," answer those opposed, and from the volume of shouting the speaker decides what has happened. Technically there is room for mistakes, although in recent years the disposition of the house to do what is asked of it has made most of the voice votes one-sided.

But the next step, taken at the request of a single member, might well settle a doubt. The members voting aye and no are asked to stand separately while counted.

Still if there happens to be 20 who wish to fuzzle up the works they may do so by asking a teller or "sheep pen" vote to follow the standing vote. That step and the resulting carnival inevitably stirs the gallery to titters and prompts the members to locker-room conduct.

Massed in front of the speaker's stand, the members are fed down a house aisle, one at a time, while the results of their hard-thinking are counted, ayes first, noes next. Frolicsome as sheep, they pat each other across the beam ends as they file through the counting gate. Inevitably they arrive at the same result as in the standing vote, although, to be sure, a call for a teller vote sends pages scurrying through the lobbies to bring in the stragglers.

Anti-Lynching
 Efforts to repeal the Negro vote with anti-lynching legislation are evident in a flood of bills already this session to bring about substitution of "due process of law" for the mob.

Nine anti-lynching bills were introduced in the house in two days, others already were in and more are coming. Yet that does not promise much. Early last session anti-lynching legislation was filibustered to death by Southern senators and inquiry now discloses few minds have changed.

Things with deliberation, rather than in haste. Cooks, confectioners and dieticians will have to be unusually careful this day. The senses of taste and smell should be employed to the fullest extent in the preparation of foods, for your eyes may fool you. Laxity in assuming responsibility, especially in commercial circles, will be the cause of a great deal of disension this day. Insobriety, is also likely to be a disturbing factor. Social functions may suffer from the guests forming little coteries of their own, resulting, through their failure to circulate freely with others at the affair, in its turning out to be decidedly dull. Hosts must not allow groups to form, if they expect their parties to be successful. Married and engaged couples, as well as those suffering from Love's enchantment, will find that too much gabble is apt to have an irritating effect.

If a woman and February 17 is your birthday, you are probably a very clever entertainer. You are likely to find that if you get into a habit of doing things in a certain way it will be difficult to learn to do them otherwise, so do not allow the rule of routine to take root too deeply. Times change and you must change with them, if you wish to succeed. You have a stout heart, and cannot be discouraged easily, so the chances are your ambition will be realized. As an educator, sales lady, musician, singer, artist, actress or writer you may gain a great deal of prestige. Your matrimonial outlook indicates some man is capable of making you very happy.

The child born on February 17 probably will be very dexterous with his hands. By the time it reaches its majority, the likelihood is that through some sort of skillful workmanship it will be launched upon a career that is liable to bring it fame. If a man and February 17 is your natal day, you possibly need to be more practical and less visionary. Politics, law, medicine, journalism, theology, agriculture or art may make you both prosperous and popular.

WIVES HEIL HITLER

Berlin—A good nazi compels his wife to support the party. Reich Civil Service Leader Hermann Neef recently declared—in the course of a funeral oration curiously—

As an instance Neef said: "When a national socialist's wife does not return the Hitler salute and replies with 'guten morgen' instead, the husband cannot be much of a national socialist. Let no one tell me, I can't help what my wife or family thinks." "A man who says that, is no man."

For A. C. Langstadt and his daughter, Mrs. Vilas Gehm, 255 River drive, who returned Friday from a visit to the west coast, their most vivid memory of California is not of sunny beaches and bright flowers, but of snow so thick that their trip was delayed for 40 hours. In addition to their travels in California, Mr. Langstadt and his daughter stopped also in Seattle, Wash., and Butte, Mont.

Expert Bridge Players Can be Found Anywhere

BY ELY CULBERTSON
(Copyright 1937, By Ely Culbertson)
If my assertions to the effect that master bridge is not indigenous to any particular section of the country, that every large city and, indeed, most hamlets can produce a fair quota of experts, are becoming slightly repetitious, it is because I am so determined to break down the ridiculous superiority pose of certain New York experts.
I take pleasure and pride in presenting a hand sent to me from Birmingham, Ala. I fully agree with the enthusiasm of my correspondent, who could, with modesty, rave over the play he was describing because he happened to be the victim, not the hero, in the letter was: "Dear Mr. Culbertson:
"Here is a hand, played in a recent duplicate match in this city, which you may think sufficiently interesting for use in your column. I thought declarer's play excellent and that his 'Sidney Lenz' on the first trick was an unblock worthy of the old master himself. I wonder how many of the nationally ranked bridge nobility would have had the foresight to prepare for a possibility so remote?

"Sitting West, I opened the heart queen and South, after going into a lengthy huddle, played the seven from dummy, winning in his hand with the ace. He then laid down the ace and king of diamonds, getting the bad news when my partner clucked a club on the second round. The spade ace was followed by the ten, which was overtaken in dummy with the jack and the club queen covered and re-covered. Seeing that I would be unable to protect both red suits and that my partner would be squeezed out of his possible heart stopper if he had to protect clubs, I made the best of a bad situation by hopefully starting an echo with the five. South then cashed the club jack and I completed my signal, dummy discarding a diamond. Now came the big, black suit. My partner obediently flung clubs and I was forced to discard all of my hearts. South's discard on the long spades were the heart deuce and the diamond. The queen of diamonds accounted for the eleventh trick, South tossing his club. Then the carefully preserved four of hearts was led and the dreaded six showed up in a nonchalant finesse. Pretty nifty, huh, Mr. Culbertson.
"Your truly, F. H. RICHMOND."
There is no need to add anything to Mr. Richmond's analysis, since he has covered every material point.
As to his "wondering how many of the nationally ranked bridge nobility would have had the foresight to prepare for a possibility so remote," I wish to state that, in my opinion, he could count them on the thumb of one hand.

TRANSPLANT SKIN
Davis, Calif.—(AP)—In an effort to discover why wool on the hind quarter of a sheep is better than that on the shoulder, J. F. Wilson, University of California expert, is transplanting the animal's skin.
The experiments, performed under anesthesia, are intended to show whether the difference is nutritional or hereditary.

THERMOMETER STOLEN
Decorah, Ia.—(AP)—When some one stole the thermometer G. P. Baker had hanging outside his lumber yard, he didn't buy a new one. Instead, he hung this sign where the thermometer used to be:
"We wish the pink-eyed pup that stole our thermometer would return it, as it was a present to us. The way you are heading it won't do you any good—it doesn't register hot enough."

New Collar Is Tonic

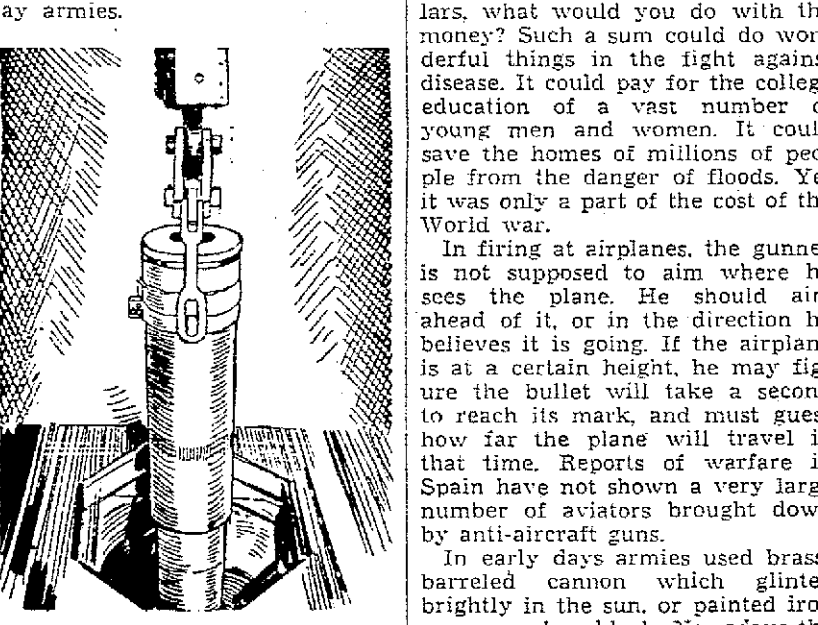

One of the best midwinter tonics for a world-weary, faded frock is the addition of a crisp white lingerie collar. This one, made of lace and net, cut like a square bertha and finished with a little frill at the neckline and edge, gives new life and chic to a simply cut black crepe frock.

Weapons of War

VII—MODERN CANNON
A modern cannon with a barrel six inches wide can send a 100-pound shell through a foot of solid iron. That may seem like a great deal of force, and it is, but the six-inch cannon is hardly more than a playing when compared with some other guns used by present-day armies.
ing the World war was from the smaller cannon, and the average cost of the shells was only about $50 apiece. Since more than 150,000,000 shells were fired, the total cost was very great—more than $7,500,000,000.
If you could manage the spending of seven and a half billion dollars, what would you do with the money? Such a sum could do wonderful things in the fight against disease. It could pay for the college education of a vast number of young men and women. It could save the homes of millions of people from the danger of floods. Yet it was only a part of the cost of the World war.
In firing at airplanes, the gunner is not supposed to aim where he sees the plane. He should aim ahead of it, or in the direction he believes it is going. If the airplane is at a certain height, he may figure the bullet will take a second to reach its mark, and must guess how far the plane will travel in that time. Reports of warfare in Spain have not shown a very large number of aviators brought down by anti-aircraft guns.
In early days armies used brass-barreled cannon which glinted brightly in the sun, or painted iron cannon red or black. Nowadays the custom is to paint big guns so they will look as nearly as possible like the landscape where they are placed for their deadly work. This helps to hide them from enemy airplanes which might drop bombs on them.

Jacket of 16-inch gun being lifted from cooling pit.

A gun with 16-inch bore can hurl a shell weighing one ton at a speed of 23 miles a minute, and the shell can cut through three feet of solid iron, almost as if the iron was cardboard.
A 12-inch gun sends out a shell with even greater speed. The shell weighs about 650 pounds and travels half a mile in one second. The weight of the cannon itself is about 67 tons.
A light field-cannon will shoot a distance of 10 or 12 miles. During the World war, the Germans used guns of mighty size known as "Big Berthas," firing them against forts and cities. These guns carried to a distance of 35 or 40 miles.

Blowing off Steam Is Way To Ease Troubled Mind

BY ANGELO PATRI
It was plain, that something had happened to displease Brother. He rushed into the sitting-room and tossed his books across the room toward the sofa, left the door wide open to the street, forgot to take his hat off and had been reminded.
"O, I forget, I'll close it if you just give me time. Well, I'll pick them up in a minute. Gee, a fellow doesn't get a break anywhere. All right, I'm going to hang them up. I was only just taking them off and resting them on the chair a minute. I wish I could go somewhere where nobody lived for a hundred years. Maybe I'd get some peace. Maybe I would."
With those pathetic words he left the room, injured virtue in every line of his retreating back.
"What do you suppose is the matter with him," said mother, knitting another needle and smiling across at grandma, who was placidly knitting on the opposite side of the table. "Something has rubbed him the wrong way. Well, he will get over it."
Just then Brother returned. He remembered there was a plate of brownies and a basket of apples on the sideboard, and knew they were waiting for him. He would no longer keep them waiting. He would do them justice speedily. With his mouth full of cake, an apple poised for the bite, he began a muffled, but soul-felt address.
"She is the worst old meanie that ever lived. That's what. She never sees what precious Willie does. O, he is her pet. Her precious pet. What is your answer, Willie? Then she smiles with all her teeth.
"If I had such teeth I wouldn't grin so wide. I wouldn't if I was her. She's always showing partiality. Dick says so, too. The old thing. And what did I do? I only just turned around and said, 'The bell! soon ring.' Just those few words, and she downs me like a load of brick falling on me. Gives me zero. Says she'll send a note home. Keeps me after school. Says I'm the worst mannered child she ever saw. Guess she never saw any. "If I'm not as good as Willie Sweitzer I'll eat my hat. I got a perfect paper in arithmetic test this morning, and her darling did NOT. He stuck half way and she nearly cried over it. 'Very good,' says she to me, but it nearly choked her.

"I'll just show her something tomorrow, if she keeps me in again I'll throw papers all over the floor under dear Willie's seat. She'll see. And I'll get failure in the arithmetic test and 'pull down the average. And I'll leave the room about fifty times so as to make the record look fierce. And I'll get a cough just when she is reading the test for dictation."

Manicure at Home Often Helps Nails

BY ELSIE PIERCE
ALTHOUGH there's nothing more luxurious than professional treatments the home treatment can, in many respects equal and exceed the benefits of the salon ritual.
The home manicure, for instance, can be started at night before retiring and finished the next morning and in the intervening time oil allowed to remain on the cuticle. The combination of the oil and massage will do much to encourage healthy nail growth, counteract ridges, tendency to brittleness and breaking.
There are a number of new preparations on the market for this purpose. The majority of them are in cream form and are to be massaged over the nail and particularly into the nail bed and cuticle. But in the absence of a special preparation for this purpose, the good-old-reliable warm olive oil will do the trick nobly.
Manicure Review
Let us review, rather briefly the manicure procedure. First remove any remaining liquid polish and for the purpose do use one of the oil removers instead of the older acid removers. That done, shape the nails with an emery board. Do not use a file. The country's leading nail specialists definitely caution against the use of a file for shaping the nails. They also caution against the use of steel instruments for cleaning the nails. Use an orange-wood stick instead. Sharp instruments may injure the delicate flesh beneath the nail and leave the under part of the nail very ragged. This not only makes the nails more prone to breakage but once ragged they are more likely to pick up every bit of dust and dirt and have it cling to the under surface.
After shaping the nail, use oil and the flat part of the orangewood stick to push back the cuticle. Try to avoid cutting any part of the cuticle except very ragged edges or hang nails. The little habit of pushing back the cuticle with towel after washing the hands is a very worthwhile one. Not only does it prove a time saver in the long run (because the cuticle, after a while, does not need cutting) but in addition the cuticle remains smooth, even and there's not so much chance of hangnails and ragged edges popping into view when least wanted.
If you're following this routine at bedtime, buff the nails before retiring apply a little more oil or a special nail preparation massaging well into nail bed and leave the application of the nail polish until the next morning.
Complete instructions for hand grooming are included in my hand bulletin. Send self-addressed, stamped, 3c-cent envelope for them. Address Miss Pierce in care of the Appleton Post-Crescent.

tween mouthfuls. Neither mother nor grandmother interrupted. Having said his full say Brother headed for the door and mother said, "Be sure you hear the whistle, Brother. You are not to be late for dinner." The door slammed and a great peace settled on the room.
"Why did you let him go on like that about Miss Susan when you know she is about the finest teacher a child ever had?" asked grandmother in sorrowful amazement.
"I let him get all that rubbish off his chest. Now he feels free and clear. Later we will get at the facts much sooner and very much easier. He has misbehaved and has been disciplined. That is all. It is over now and he will forget it. If I had silenced him he would still be brooding over it and planning sweet revenge. He took all that out

Here's One Sufferer Who Can't Get Rid of Bores

BY DOROTHY DIX
Dear Miss Dix—I am the victim of bores. I have a number of friends and acquaintances who are good, kind, well-meaning people and whom I would hate to hurt or offend, yet who are dull, stupid and tiresome and who bore me to extinction. I have tried every way I know to get rid of them, but without avail. Is there any way to escape bores?
A SUFFERER.
Answer:
I am afraid not, because the world is full of them and go where you would, they would be there waiting to pounce upon you. The only possible way to avoid them would be to live in a hermit cell and then, perhaps, if you had no companionship, then your own society you would find that you were your own worst bore.
Seeing, then, that the bore is ever present with us and that there is no possibility of escaping the pests, why not make a virtue of necessity and make lending your ears cheerfully to tiresome people your boy Scout daily good deed?
Perhaps you have never thought that just listening to a man or woman may be the exercise of charity in its highest form, but such is the case. There are plenty of people who are just as much starving for companionship as they could be for food; who are just as much shivering in the coldness of their isolation as they would be if they were out on a winter's night with no warm clothes to protect them. You would share your dinner with the hungry, you would bestow your coat upon the freezing. Why not, then, acquire merit, as the Hindus say, by supplying the needs of these spiritual paupers?
In a way, bores are outcasts. Pariahs. Every one avoids them as if they had the plague. Nobody wants to listen to their dull monotonous details of their daily lives. No one craves to hear them tell over and over again the stale jokes and the pointless stories that they have heard a thousand times, and so the poor creatures wander from group to group seeking whom they may devour, and generally finding somehow their victims have escaped.
But if you would measure the bore's sufferings, match the joy that illumines his countenance when he finds some philanthropic soul who will listen to him with an appearance of interest while he tells all about the grocery trade and the smart things his little Johnnie said, and boasts of the peculiar excellence of his motorcar.
And old people. Think how they wake up and come back to new life when they find some one who will actually ask them questions about things that happened in their youth, and who doesn't look like an early Christian martyr when they start out on a joke that has served them for forty years! And women! Haven't you seen a forlorn, disgruntled-looking woman simply sit up and beam with unconcealed rapture when given an opportunity to tell all about her minor and major operations?
And old people. Think how they wake up and come back to new life when they find some one who will actually ask them questions about things that happened in their youth, and who doesn't look like an early Christian martyr when they start out on a joke that has served them for forty years! And women! Haven't you seen a forlorn, disgruntled-looking woman simply sit up and beam with unconcealed rapture when given an opportunity to tell all about her minor and major operations?
Surely if we realized that in no other way could we scatter so much sunshine and bring so much happiness to our fellow creatures as by suffering fools gladly, as the Good Book says, we would be more patient with bores.
Dear Miss Dix—Some time ago my younger brother secretly married against our parents' wishes and brought his wife home for us to support. They have settled down to a life of ease and idleness and his wife will not even help my mother with the housework. I have a good job and had looked forward to marriage, but this is now impossible with this added burden on my shoulders. What is the correct solution of the problem?
JOHN.
Answer:
The correct solution of the problem is to throw your brother and his wife out of the house, and make them support themselves. That is the best thing for them as well as for you, because it's the only way to turn them into decent, self-respecting human beings. Otherwise they will develop into parasites, than which there is no more contemptible thing.

In tens of thousands of households there are able-bodied men and women who are leeches who suck the life blood of the other members of the family. They will not work. They let old mothers and fathers and frail young sisters toil to support them. The hard-earned money of other brothers goes to feed and clothe them, and this condition is brought about by the weakness and cowardice of those who have not the grit to turn a lazy worker out on the street, and say, "Work or starve. We refuse to sacrifice ourselves to a dead beat."
Why should you deny yourself the happiness of marriage in order to support your brother's wife because he is too good for nothing to work for her? Answer that question honestly, and you will have the answer to your problem.

GOOD TASTE TODAY

BY EMILY POST

THE FATHER OF THE BRIDE
Dear Mrs. Post: My father remains firm in his resolution not to wear anything but a dark business suit at my wedding. I can not make him understand that if he doesn't change his mind and wear striped trousers then the ushers will have to dress as he does, and with all the men walking the procession in business clothes it certainly will look out of place to have me in white satin and my attendants in something equally important. Do you suppose you could persuade him?

Answer: I don't want to spoil your wedding picture even in the single detail of one man's clothes. But as a matter of fact it is not at all important that your father be dressed to match the ushers. I must change his mind and wear striped trousers then the ushers will have to dress as he does, and with all the men walking the procession in business clothes it certainly will look out of place to have me in white satin and my attendants in something equally important. Do you suppose you could persuade him?

Dear Mrs. Post: Our large wedding had to be postponed on account of an accident in my family. Now we would prefer to get married very simply and have nothing unless it is necessary that I again invite all the people whose invitations were recalled.

Answer: It would not do to send out engraved invitations to a selection from the original list, but when the situation has been changed and only verbal invitations can be given to families and intimate friends, those not included will have no reason to feel hurt because they were necessarily left out.

Dear Mrs. Post: We are having two marriage services as my fiancé and I are of separate religious beliefs. We will have the first service in his church in the morning, in the vestry, since an outsider would not be permitted a service at the altar, and necessarily there will be only our families and two attendants present. Immediately after this service I would like to have a big wedding in my own church so that I might be able to wear my grandmother's wedding dress and have something to ask our many friends to. Will this arrangement be suitable?

Answer: This would be entirely proper; in fact, if you want a precedent, one that comes to mind is the two marriages of the Duke and Duchess of Kent, the private one in the chapel in Buckingham Palace and the big one in Westminster Abbey. Both of these occurred on the same day. While I can't imagine any objection to a double ceremony in America, it would perhaps be best to consult both clergymen.

ESCAPE IF YOU CAN
BY FREDERICK JACKSON

SYNOPSIS: Bigelow, young American-born Parisian, comes to New York in response to his aunt's appeal that he check on a Count Vronski whom her step-daughter Anne may marry. On the ship Bigelow meets the exotic looking Russian dancer, Karsanokoff, who shows veiled interest when he mentions Vronski. Arriving at his hotel, Bigelow glimpses an attractive girl on her way to a man's room. Next day he has tea with his aunt and meets Anne, recognizing her as the girl at the hotel. They arrange a dinner party, including Vronski and Karsanokoff.

Chapter Six
Cocktails with Karsanokoff

ALTHOUGH Anne was in silver with a chinchilla wrap and looked radiant, it was not so much at her as at Count Vronski that Bigelow looked when they arrived. And he was conscious of a feeling of disappointment.

The man did not look dangerous at all. He was not even very handsome. A well set-up fellow, very fair, with fair hair that he wore rather short and a well curled mustache. His cheek bones were high, his eyes were blue. A not very unusual Slavic type, he had no suggestion of intelligence nor even shrewdness about him. He might have been a soldier. He carried himself like one.

"We've reserved a table at Madge Forrester's," Anne announced. "You wouldn't know her. She used to practically support night clubs before the crash. But they lost their money and now she acts as hostess and runs one herself. We all go there. It's a good spot."

"Seems to me I've seen her in Paris," said Bigelow as he gave them drinks.

"It's possible. She's been there," smiled Anne.

"What does she do? Dance or sing?" he asked.

"Nothing. Just draws the crowd," explained Anne. "People go because they like her, really. She has a few good entertainers, of course, but they're of secondary importance."

"You have not been in New York in a long time?" asked Vronski.

"No."

"Once I too, preferred Paris," the Russian assured him, "but that was before I had discovered New York. Paris is no longer gay."

"There are not so many Americans there as there used to be," admitted Bigelow.

"That is what I mean," smiled Vronski. He had strong white teeth that gleamed when he smiled and he smiled almost too much. Bigelow was aware of a faint antagonism stirring in him and he began to understand how Mrs. Phelps had felt. The mystery was Anne's attitude toward the man. Bigelow could not fathom it.

She was different tonight—cooler—harder. And she seemed older. He wondered if this was the front she usually presented to the world, or if it was merely the side of her which Vronski brought out.

Eyes on Vronski

He got his hat and coat when they had finished their drinks and they went on to pick up Karsanokoff.

"You never met Madame Karsanokoff in Paris?" Bigelow asked when they were in Anne's car.

"No, I was never so lucky," answered Vronski. "I never even saw her dance, but she dances well, I hear."

"She dances very well," Bigelow responded, mechanically. He had been watching Vronski as he mentioned Karsanokoff's name but Vronski's face had revealed nothing but polite interest. If he had ever met the dancer, Bigelow decided, he was cleverer than he seemed.

At the Carleton, Bigelow announced their names and was invited to ascend.

The door of Karsanokoff's suite was opened to them by a middle-aged Russian woman with a sad face and tragic dark eyes. She was in black, with a white apron—obviously Karsanokoff's maid.

"Come in, please," she said carefully in English and stood deferentially aside to let them pass. And though her glance took them all in, it came to rest on Vronski's face with a curious fixed expression. She knew him; that was plain. But she made no sign.

They entered and found Karsanokoff mixing cocktails. She was in black velvet, very plain, clinging to the lines of her slender figure. She had pearls at her throat and in her ears. On one hand gleamed a large square-cut ruby, the exact shade of the rouge on her mouth and the enamel on her nails. The room—done in cool green—formed a perfect background for her and it was filled with big, heavily scented crimson roses.

As Bigelow introduced them, Karsanokoff greeted Anne with a swift smile and turned to Vronski. The smile remained on her lips as he bent over her hand, but there was an enigmatic expression in her eyes now. She knew him, too—Bigelow was sure of it—but she accepted the introduction as though he were a stranger, and Vronski betrayed no recognition by either word or look.

"I have made champagne cocktails," said Karsanokoff turning her back and resuming her task. "I like them best because they go well afterward with champagne." Bigelow detected an undertone of excitement in her voice, but she was completely mistress of herself as she presently smiled at Anne. "Do you like them, too, Miss Phelps?"

"Adore them," declared Anne extravagantly.

"There is nothing to drink I do not like," put in Vronski easily.

"That is because you are a Russian," said Karsanokoff. "When one has been reared on vodka, one can drink anything without alarm."

She smiled at Vronski and Bigelow watched them both. He perceived that she was concealing her recognition of him from Vronski himself as well as from the rest of them, and he wondered why this was so. Then he caught Anne's eye and realized that Anne was watching him watch them.

"I dance with passion," Mariuska is bringing caviar in a moment," said Karsanokoff. "The first thing today I went to find it. But I had no difficulty at all. This New York is wonderful. Already I like it very much. Everything that one wishes is there. Why I have not come here before, I cannot tell you. Many times I have been offered contracts and always I said, 'No, no, no,' only because I could not bear to leave Paris."

"You will like New York better than Paris," said Vronski. "You will find it much more gay."

"Yes. Perhaps I shall realize here all my desires," said Karsanokoff.

The maid entered with a tray of cocktail snacks and as she offered them, her eyes met her mistress's once—and a look passed between them, a long understanding look that was not lost on Bigelow, although he did not guess the meaning.

Labor Viewpoint Is Discussed by Appleton Lawyer

Menasha Lions Hear Samuel Sigman on the Laborer's Angle

Menasha—Voicing the viewpoint of organized labor before members of the Menasha Lions club yesterday, Samuel Sigman, former Outagamie district attorney, told members that "organized labor does not believe in employer-employee strife but believes in industrial peace."

"Strikes are the economic weapon of the laboring man. His employer's weapon is usually the statement 'if you don't want to work, get out' and in some cases must be met with a similar weapon," Sigman said.

Pointing out the difference in industry today and in the early days of development, the attorney said, "The United States started out as a farming country with various small industries here and there. If a man did not like his job or his farm he quit or moved to a different territory. Today the frontier is gone. He cannot move to another place for new opportunity. He must depend on the job he has."

"At that time labor did not confine itself to mass production. The worker is now dependent on his fellow laborer and other lines of business. His opportunity is limited to the job he holds in the factory. He is no longer a free lance. He must protect his job and as a result he looks upon it in a proprietary manner," Sigman said.

"These changes which came through invention and increases in population have changed the opinions of labor. To meet changed conditions that have come about through evolution in society, the laborer has called into play methods of self-protection against poor working conditions, low wages and starvation conditions."

Telling of the results of these changes in society, Sigman stated, "The success of the laborer in the early stages of organization. All labor strife is the result of the inability of the employer to understand the viewpoint of the laborer. The employer's attitude has changed in the last few years as evidenced by the allowance of organization in factories."

"Because of the success of labor organization, public opinion has changed. Child labor laws, compensation laws and unemployment compensation are some of the examples of legislation pushed through by organized labor. Every gain labor has made, it has obtained through its own efforts," Sigman continued.

"A clear understanding between labor and business is necessary if the same progress is to be made in the future. The success of collective bargaining is dependent on the numbers of union members. Wisconsin has had comparative industrial peace and the reason for it is that Wisconsin has had a progressive point of view and has recognized the need for organization. Courts in Wisconsin are willing to recognize the trend of the times. Where courts do not allow organization, you have industrial strife," the attorney said.

"If the industrialist could see that the worker feels that his job is his own property right and feels that no one else has a right to replace him, much could be done in the way of settling labor disputes," the speaker concluded.

Speaker Says Women Have Duty in Fight on Forces Seeking to Undermine U.S.

Neenah—Challenging the women of all patriotic organizations to take cognizance of the inroads that communism has made in United States, Mrs. Adaline Wright MacCauley, past national president, American Legion auxiliary, told more than 75 women assembled at the S. A. Cook armory last night that they have a definite responsibility to be informed citizenry in order to combat the forces that seek to undermine the Constitution of the United States.

"We can't just know. We must give," said Mrs. MacCauley who spoke on "Americanism" as a guest of the Neenah auxiliary. Members of other Twin City patriotic organizations were invited guests. "We must carry throughout our program of Americanism," said Mrs. MacCauley. "We must combat with factual information the insidious propaganda that seeks to destroy the fundamentals of our democracy."

"Gunter says in his book, 'Inside Europe' that propaganda could make anything popular, even death. Propaganda is thrown at us from all sides. The radio, newspapers, magazines, books, to say little about the countless pamphlets, are all implements of propaganda that can be a deterrent force against Americanism."

"I know that at Wisconsin university we have no more radical faculty than in any other university but I also know that we allow radicals to be accepted in our university while in other universities they are not accepted. In Wisconsin University, these communist organizations are countenanced and allowed to flourish. In the University of Minnesota and the University of Illinois they are not. A university regent said that there are only 60 members in the young communist league at Wisconsin. I had no opportunity to answer back but I say that is 60 too many. He did not speak also of those hundreds of students who are members of organizations such as the National Student League and the League for Industrial Peace which are sponsored by communist organizations."

"These organizations are bound together in one big organization known as the American Student Union. It has hundreds of members in Wisconsin. They pledge an intelligent fight against the forces that would lead the road to socialism. They oppose R. O. T. C. and C. M. T. C. and support the Oxford pledge which is a pledge not to fight for their country. We know that these teachings of propagandistic organizations are on our campus of Columbia University where a recent survey showed that 18 percent of the students were self-styled communists and 60 percent were self-styled liberals, where it was conceded by President Butler that most of the editorial staff are communists or communist sympathizers. Where do these people go? Back to our teachers' colleges and back to our high schools."

Must Make Demands "Do we mothers and teachers feel any responsibility? What do we do to combat this? Are we not justified in demanding elimination of all un-patriotic teachings?"

"In a recent poll made at the University of Wisconsin, out of 4,000 students approached, 17 percent signified a willingness to fight in any war in which the United States was involved, fulfilling their right of citizenship and 20 percent said that they would not fight in any kind of war in which this country was involved."

"I do not feel those statistics are alarming but we must concern ourselves with the other 63 percent who are indifferent. To disregard a moment, I attended a National Defense conference in Washington recently and heard places made by students for information. They said 'you give us nothing to combat these radical organizations. You send us no pamphlets, no leaflets, no books. You should be concerned with the great mass of students who are indifferent. Don't go back home with having done nothing. We want your help to combat this propaganda. We want intelligent information, factual information on national defense."

"Are we going on that way? Are we going to continue to give youth nothing, and be shocked when they become the victims of un-Americanism?"

Take a Stand "I want your Neenah unit delegates to make a definite stand in order that Wisconsin may have the honor of carrying to the National Convention a resolution demanding that money be expended for a program that is greatly needed, a program of factual information for a definite fight against this radical propaganda."

"Do you know that there are three groups working in the churches under the cloak of humanitarianism to disseminate communist propaganda? There is the Federal Council of Churches, the Methodist name and the National Council for the Prevention of War. These organizations are controlled by men who are distinctly communist minded. Yet they disseminate alleged information to the people who believe it because they haven't the factual information which we have neglected to present."

New London Is Awarded State Ski Tournament for March 14

New Tower Now Is 88 Feet High; Test Slide This Week

N. L. Club Riders are Entered in Two Coming Tournaments

NEW LONDON—New London's offer to be host to the state's best ski riders in the Wisconsin open championship ski meet was officially accepted in a communication received yesterday by C. H. Kellogg, secretary of the New London Ski club, from A. J. Barth, Milwaukee, secretary of the Central United States Ski association which sanctions the meets. The tournament will be held at the Mosquito hill slide Sunday, March 14.

A gala affair is anticipated since the new ski tower was completed last week to its full 88 feet in height. The slide was being snowed up today and Robert Roecker, new rider of the New London club, has announced he will try out the new set-up sometime this week. The ski club will meet this week to start preparations for the meet.

Although Roecker failed to place in Class A at the Rosholt ski meet Sunday, he made the longest standing jump of the day with 130 feet, according to Kellogg. In his second attempt he jumped 141 feet but fell at the bottom of the slide. Leslie Jacobson won Class C first place for New London.

All New London riders will be entered in the meet at Iron Mountain, Mich., Sunday, and at Ishpeming Monday.

Among New London people attending the meet at Rosholt Sunday were Dr. George W. Polzin, Dr. J. W. Monsted, Robert Monsted, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Comstock, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Gradiar and Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Kellogg and son Tim.

Deny M. U. Has Coach in Mind

Jennings Says School Will Act Slowly; No One Has "Inside Track"

MILWAUKEE—(U)—The Marquette University athletic board met today to begin discussions of a suggestion to head football Coach Frank J. Murray who resigned Saturday to go to Virginia University.

"All I can say about the situation now," said Conrad M. Jennings, athletic director, "is that we are going to hold some informal meetings and discuss the type of coach we want."

"It may take six weeks, or more, but we are going to be sure that we have the right man before our final decision is made. Meanwhile, we probably will have to deny hundreds of rumors."

Jennings denied yesterday anyone was being considered for the post at the moment and said none therefore could have the "inside track" as was reported of Dukes Duford, former Marquette fullback now coaching at St. Ambrose College, Dubuque, Iowa.

"We have had no communication with Duford, nor Duford with us," Jennings said.

Jennings said a half dozen applications have been received.

Weyauwega Entered in Marion Tourney

MARION—The third team to signify its intention of entering the Marion district Class "C" tournament on March 4, 5, and 6 is Weyauwega High school. To date the Red and White has a record of six wins and four losses. Two of the losses were by four points or less which gives the Indians a good record.

The bulk of the scoring done by the Indians so far has been done by the best freshman ever to perform in the C. W. league, Gilman Hertz. Teamed with him at forward is the veteran Glen Steiger.

At center the Indians show another freshman who, by his performance to date, will be heard from many in years to come. His name is Leroy Grawert and he is a brother of the Grawert who starred for Weyauwega a few years ago.

The real veteran of the team is Jimmy Nienhaus, guard. Teamed with him is Orville Buchholz.

Reserves on the team are John Behnke, center. Donald Thews, John Look and Clarence Stillman.

Weyauwega is coached by Ronald M. Ray, former Stevens Point teacher and coach.

Summary of games:
Weyauwega 28, Shiocton 10.
Weyauwega 33, Scandinavia 13.
Weyauwega 26, Red Granite 6.

Jimmy Richardson Winner at Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE—(U)—James Richardson of Fond du Lac, won his way into the finals of the Milwaukee golden gloves tournament by outpointing Ernie Bucher of Milwaukee, in their three-round semi-final bout last night.

Richardson is entered in the open division for 112-pounders.

William Cowan of Jefferson, open division heavyweight, defeated David Kincaide, Milwaukee, in three rounds.

Theron McClain of Whitewater, won two bouts to enter the heavyweight finals in the novice division. He knocked out Mike Stimac of Milwaukee in the third round of their match and then outpointed Ralph Elliott, also of Milwaukee, in three rounds.

Milwaukeeans participated in the other quarter-final and semi-final bouts on the program.

Mike Jacobs Says Everything's O. K. For Joe-Jim Bout

So Chicagoans See Way Clear for Heavyweight Go in June

BY EARL HILLIGAN
CHICAGO—(U)—Everyone wore a broad smile along Chicago's heavyweights title bout front today—Mike (Scatter-Sunshine) Jacobs of New York had put out the good word.

The good word, said Jacobs as he stopped here on his way to Kansas City, was that "everything is all set" for a James J. Braddock-Joe Louis 15-round title fight here next June.

There has been, at one time and another, apprehension in some circles as to whether there would be any fight. But when Jacobs, who holds exclusive rights to Louis' services, said that everything is "all set," the boys figured Jim and Joe were as good as in the ring.

Jacobs' assurance that the fight will be held even induced a Chicago hotel chef to start planning a big luncheon for next Friday noon.

At that time titleholder Jim and Challenger Joe will sign articles for the bout, and there were indications the long-awaited penmanship party will be one of the best ever.

Even the New York boxing commission has received an invitation—or at least one of its members has. Colonel D. Walker Wear was invited by Matchmaker Joe Foley to attend the ceremony, but Colonel Walker intimated he might be among those missing. He declined to disclose what action the New York body has taken or will take.

Chicago's contract to meet Max Schmeling in New York.

No one seems particularly concerned about site or date, or at least that's what everyone is trying to make everyone else believe. The Chicago park board, controlling Soldier field, was to decide today whether it would charge 10 or 15 or 25 per cent of the gate receipts in the event the promoters want to rent the 130,000 seat stadium.

It's 10 per cent the bout may be put on there June 15. If it's more than 10, the battle was expected to be staged June 22 at Comiskey park, home of the White Sox, where 75,000 fans can be accommodated.

Louis, who meets Natic Brown at Kansas City Wednesday night, will return here Thursday. Champion Braddock will appear at a charity show in Pittsburgh Wednesday before continuing to Chicago for Friday's ceremony.

Wagner Names Scout On All-American Board

NEW YORK—(U)—Honus Wagner, high commissioner of semi-professional baseball, announced today the appointment of Bill Hinchman, Pittsburgh Pirates scout, as a member of the all-American board to select the officials all-star team at the all-star team at the national semi-professional baseball tournament at Wichita, Kans., in August.

Hinchman is the third of the 16 scouts to be selected. Joe Devine, New York Yankees, and Steve O'Rourke, Detroit Tigers, already have been named.

Kimberly Class C Cage Meet to Feature Teams From Little 9 Circuit

KIMBERLY—Little Nine conference basketball coaches, both in the Eastern and Western divisions, will get a chance to play over some of the games they lost, during the regular schedule when they compete in the Kimberly district Class C basketball tournament at the clubhouse March 3, 4, 5 and 6.

Seven of the right teams entered are members of the Little Nine while another will join the group if Hilbert can beat Stockbridge in a playoff.

Teams entered from the Eastern division of the circuit are Denmark, apparent titlist, Brillion and Kimberly. The Western division teams are Hortonville, Shiocton, Winneconne and Seymour, the latter the divisional champion.

Although Denmark and Seymour will be favored to win in whatever bracket they are placed and there-

MARION HIGH WINS SECOND CENTRAL CAGE TITLE

Marion High school basketball team, above, won its second consecutive title in the Central Wisconsin conference last week when it took its eighth straight game. Waupaca, the second place team, was the victim and the score was 29 to 25. Marion has two more league games to play but is hoped to win easily and then start pointing for the Marion district Class C tournament which is scheduled the first week in March. The picture shows, front row, left to right, Roy Elandt, guard, Joe Daley, guard, Ned Wulk, center, Gordon Borchardt, forward, and Murray Meyer, forward; standing, Leslie Anson, coach, Melvin Wisniewski, forward, Francis Byers, guard, Ken Bowers, guard, Harold Reinert, center, Ted Olson, forward, and L. K. Forrest, principal.

Lawrence Quint Invades Ripon For Game Tonight

Vikings Hope to Down Crimson and Repeat Performance Next Week

LAWRENCE college basketball team which soon may be dubbed the Ramblers instead of Vikings, will take to the road again late this afternoon and invade Ripon on college campus for a Midwest conference game. It will mark the fifth straight start the Vikes have made on foreign floors in the last three weeks. They have traveled about 1,700 miles.

Although defeated at Carleton last Saturday evening, Lawrence isn't in the dumps. The Vikes played good enough ball to win a lot of Midwest games and feel they might have copped had they been opposing anyone but the conference champions on their own floor.

With only a minute and a half to go against the Carls, Lawrence was training by a mere 28 to 23 count. Then Straubel went out of the game on personals and Fahede wilted under the up-and-down-the-floor pace he was setting and the reserves who relieved the two men failed to stop a Carleton rally.

Coach Denney will have full strength against Ripon this evening and he feels he's coming home with a win. Burton was back in form against Carleton and the team clicked fairly well. If it can stay together for the remainder of the season it feels that it can take Ripon twice. Beloit and Cornell once each and earn a fairly respectable rating in the Midwest.

The Viking freshmen are taking the trip to Ripon along with the varsity. They haven't seen action since they lost to Carroll freshmen a couple weeks ago. Next week Ripon will show at Alexander gymnasium.

Luke Appling Offered $17,500 by Chi Sox

CHICAGO—(U)—Luke Appling, who won the American League batting title last season, is going to become the highest paid of all ball players developed by the Chicago White Sox.

Appling, who has asked a $20,000 contract for 1937, yesterday was offered $17,500 by Lou Gonsky, Sox president, and it and when he accepts that figure Appling will hit an all-time high for players trained and brought up by the club.

Comiskey, who previously had offered Appling a $15,000 salary plus a $2,500 bonus-attendance clause, said he expected Appling's signed contract within a few days.

Grid Rules Group Puts Premium on the Kickoff

NEW YORK—(U)—The football rules committee of the National Collegiate A. A. reporting on its three-day meeting at Absecon, N. J., today placed a heavy premium on the kickoff, gave officials and the defense a little leeway on the disputed pass interference regulation and threatened drastic action against ineligible pass receivers.

At the same time the committee adopted the suggestion of the American Football Coaches association making the numbering of all players on the front and back of their jerseys mandatory, and clarified the rule against kicking.

Effective with the start of the 1937 intercollegiate campaign, only one kickoff will be allowed. If the ball is kicked out of bounds, it is to be put in play by the opponents.

The rule makers added a supplemental rule, the forward pass interference regulation pointing out that "defensive players have as much right to the ball as the eligible opponents, and bodily contact, however severe, between players who are making a 'bona fide' attempt to catch or bat the ball shall not be construed as interference."

This new phase was adopted upon the recommendation of the coaches' rules committee and is calculated to give officials a chance to draw a line of demarcation between interference and non-interference.

However, it's still considered interference when an eligible receiver bumps into a defensive player, who standing with his back to the ball, is waving his arms in front of the face of the receiver.

The new kickoff rule applies only to balls going out-of-bounds between the goal lines. As heretofore, a kick-off rolling across the goal line into the end zone or out-of-bounds beyond the end zone will result in the defending team taking possession on its own 20-yd. line.

Brown Confident of Win Over Joe Lou

KANSAS CITY—(U)—Natie Brown insisted today there is no significance in the fact Joe Louis is called the "brown" bomber.

Two hundred pounds of eagerness the Washington Hebrew desired to do even better in his 10-round engagement with Louis tomorrow night than he did in 1935. Then he stayed 10 rounds with Joe.

Brown has been fighting since 1928, the records, and his face, show. He has been knocked out only twice, once in 1930, and last year by Lefty Hynes. He took decisions over Leo Lyons, Kayo Christner, Eddie Sims and Hens Birkie, and drew with Mickey Walker and Walter Neusel.

Brown's expressed confidence is not echoed by the fans, who vision a quick Louis Kayo. Matchmaker Frank Gatto predicted a $25,000 gate, of which Louis will get a 40 per cent cut. Brown draws 15 per cent.

GAMES FRIDAY NIGHT
Fond du Lac at Green Bay East.
Green Bay West at Sheboygan.
Appleton at Manitowoc.

THE Fox River Valley conference basketball race is featuring a battle for individual scoring honors no less keen than the scoring three-team stretch battle which apparently will not be concluded until the final games of the season.

Almost every week, a different player has taken over the lead. The present holder of first place is Versatile Virgil Batterman of Oshkosh, a potential all-conference man, who has stepped into a 16-point lead over the field.

This isn't as impressive as it looks, as Kenny Timm of Sheboygan, Batterman's rival for mythical team honors, unless there is some switching of positions, although 23 points behind, has played in two less games than Batterman. Timm at present rests in fourth place, with Ken Slattery of Appleton second and Curly Witczak of Manitowoc a close third.

Terrors at Manitowoc
Upon the husky shoulders of Manitowoc's luck, brigade this week falls the assignment of halting Appleton's championship race, while Sheboygan, now holder of second place, will be at home to West's sturdy five, Oshkosh, still very much in the swim despite two defeats, will be idle, and Fond du Lac will visit Green Bay East.

Although Oshkosh lost its defensive lead last week, the Indians have moved past Appleton in that "defensive" place on offense, behind Sheboygan. Green Bay West climbed ahead of East into fifth place. The offensive averages: Sheboygan 27, Oshkosh 25.8, Appleton 24.8, Manitowoc 23.2, West 22.3, East 21.1, Fond du Lac 17.2.

Manitowoc, which did not see conference action last Friday, now is first on defense, Oshkosh dropping to second place. Appleton and East have advanced to tie Sheboygan for third, while West has fallen to sixth. Defensive averages: Manitowoc 19.3, Oshkosh 20.7, Sheboygan, Appleton and East 22.3 each, West 22.7, Fond du Lac 30.2.

Y Netballers Will Perform at Plymouth

The Appleton Y.M.C.A. volleyball team will play a return match at Plymouth tonight with Mission House college. The local team defeated the Plymouth team a week ago by making a clean sweep of the 5-game match. The Mission lads, however, promise trouble for the Y men on their own floor. The Mission team was at a distinct disadvantage here and was called repeatedly on service faults. The match will be five games regardless of the number won or lost.

The same team which has represented the Y thus far this season in six matches will again form the battle front with Captain Eugene Mullins, Percy Manning, Carl Kozetzke, Rev. C. M. Schendel and Carleton Feurst spiking and Robert Heiss, R. A. Potter, Dr. G. W. Carlson, Frank Hammer and Bert Norling working as setter-ups. The team also will play a return match at Green Bay Y Friday evening.

CHICAGO—(U)—The Golden Gophers of Minnesota, one of the pre-season "dark horses," and sharpshooting Jewell Young of Purdue had Big Ten basketball fans talking today.

Minnesota led the pack in the hot title scramble, its 43-37 victory over Iowa last night giving the Gophers a record of 6 wins and one defeat. Young, as his part of a spectacular evening in which eight teams saw action, held a tie for the modern Big Ten one-game individual scoring record—29 points.

Purdue defeated Illinois, recent conference pace setters, 61, to 34, and Young's brilliant offensive performance stole the show. He bagged 13 field goals and three free throws, tying the previous modern scoring mark set in the 1933 by Joe Reiff, Northwestern, against Chicago. Young is leading the individual scoring race with 129 points in eight games.

Minnesota, in taking over first place as Illinois and Purdue went into a tie for second, was better than the Hawkeyes almost from the opening whistle. Johnny Kundla, speedy sophomore forward, bagged 11 points while Gordon Adginton scored 12. Iowa flashed a rally in the second period but could not keep the pace and the Gophers raced through a tired Hawk defense to win.

Michigan stuck in the title running by walloping Indiana's flailing Hoosiers 55 to 31. It was a fifth win for the Wolverines and a fourth defeat for Indiana.

John (Jack) Townsend paced Michigan to victory, accounting for 19 points, while the Michigan defense was so effective that Ken Gunning and Bob Etnire, star Indiana forwards, could total but 13 points.

Ohio State came from behind to win its sixth game, defeating Northwestern 33 to 30. The defeat was Northwestern's fifth in seven starts. Northwestern led at the half, 20-17, but a Buckeye offense in the second period, paced by Hull, quickly put State in front.

The Minnesota-Purdue clash next Saturday night at LaFayette shapes up as the battle which may decide the conference champion.

Badgers 19, Tigers 16.

Pickups stopped the All-Stars' winning streak cold last night with a 25 to 19 victory on the Y. M. C. A. court to win their second Older Boys league game in the second half of the schedule. The highly-touted All-Stars, with 15 consecutive victories, were snowed under a barrage of points in the first half and failed to retaliate in the final quarters.

The game was rough throughout with 31 fouls called on the two teams. Kolb and Femal left the game for the All-Stars while Doug Ogilvie of the Pickups turned in seven points before getting too rough. The score at the end of the first period was 5 to 4 for the Pickups and they were still ahead 11 to 4 at the half. All-Stars rallied but were behind 19 to 14 at the end of the third period.

The Zephyrs and Wildcats put on a fine exhibition in the second game with both teams playing hard and showing tight defenses. Zephyrs showed a smoother-clicking machine to cop the win by a margin of two points. Wildcats led 4 to 2 at the quarter and Zephyrs went in front 9 to 7 at the half. The Zephyrs led 14 to 13 at the end of the third quarter.

Badgers scored the third upset last night by defeating the Tigers in a game replete with thrills and action. Showing a tight defense, the Badgers followed the Harneson-Volkman way to cop a 19 to 12 decision. Badgers were ahead 6 to 3 at the first quarter, 11 to 10 at half-time and 15 to 12 at the end of the third quarter.

Badgers Preparing For Nodak Punchers

Madison—(AP)—Wisconsin's varsity boxers will need all the splendid physical condition for which Coach John Walsh's teams are noted when they meet the North Dakota leather pushers at the field house Friday night in the Badgers' first 1937 match.

"Forget the scores of past matches with North Dakota and just remember that less than two months ago the Dakotans went out to Pullman, Wash., and beat Washington State 4 to 3 in its own ring. Coach Walsh told his men.

Walsh recalled that among the Washington state boxers were Bob Bates and Paul Waller who last April put up terrific battles here against Wisconsin's Gordie Harneson, 155-pound champion, and George Stupar, present Badger captain.

Oshkosh Stars, Renaissance Will Meet in Five-Game World's Series

Oshkosh—The world's series in professional basketball—five games between the New York Renaissance, colored champions, and the Oshkosh All Stars—will begin in Oshkosh, Saturday evening, Feb. 20. On the outcome of the series will depend whether or not the All Stars, conquerors of many of the leading teams in the country, can ascend to the world's title.

A five-game series was played between the two aggregations, generally considered the best in the country, during the 1935-36 season, with the Rens emerging victorious in three contests and thus retaining their crown.

With another year of experience behind them and an improved lineup, and an outstanding record of 20 games won in 23 starts against the best teams in the pro game, the All Stars are confident of winning a majority of the games in the series and of annexing the world's championship.

Besides the opening game here Saturday evening, the other contests in the series will be on Sunday afternoon at the University of Wisconsin fieldhouse at Madison; Wednesday evening, Feb. 24, at the Ripon college gymnasium; Saturday, Feb. 27, at Oshkosh; and Sunday afternoon, Feb. 28, at Green Bay.

The Renaissance hold the all-time record in basketball for the longest winning streak, having set a mark of 38 consecutive victories during the 1933-34 season. During their 1935-36 campaign they won 121 contests and dropped only 15. This season they have been traveling at a fast rate and have dropped only a few of the many games played.

Playing practically every night in the week from fall until spring and against the strongest pro teams in the country, the record of the Rens is little short of unbelievable.

The Rens will have the same team as that of last season. Clarence "Pat" Jenkins, said to be the fastest man in basketball, is captain of the aggregation. Wisconsin cage fans who saw the All Stars-Rens series last year remember his bullet-like speed.

At center will be Charles "Tarzan" Cooper and "Wee Willie" Smith, who are 6 feet 4 inches and 6 feet 5 inches tall, respectively. At one guard will be John "Casey" Holt, considered one of the best dribblers in the game. A deadshot under the basket is William Yancey, Eye "Bruiser" Saitch, "spark plug" of the Rens, once held the national colored tennis championship and uses the same speed in basketball that he displayed on the tennis court. The clown with the team, but nevertheless a player who can "hold his own" with the others is "Jack-Rabbit" Bethards.

NEW YORK—(AP)—James J. Braddock, the most active referee ever to hold the heavyweight championship, leaves tonight for Pittsburgh on another charity job.

The champs' most willing gent in town, he hasn't forgotten his own days on charity. Every night or so he's helping somebody out.

Babe Ruth wasn't in Bermuda five minutes yesterday before he was in the limelight. "An act-up to present him with three bottles of vintage wine. This was fine, explained the Babe. It would look good in the trophy he expected to win in the golf tournament."

College Gridders of Today are Smart, Stuhldreher Says
Denver—Football players today "are lot smarter than we were 12 to 15 years ago," Harry Stuhldreher, one of the famed four horsemen of Notre Dame, said here yesterday.

"You hear a lot of talk about dumb football players, but the old grey matter and brawn go hand in hand in football," he said.

Stuhldreher, football coach at the University of Wisconsin, speaking at a meeting of Denver alumni of Wisconsin, said, "the college kids are a lot smarter than we were. Better prep school coaching, improved facilities and many other things account for this."

"Nearly all the college stars are smart, and not only in a football way. If some are deficient in the class room it is often attributable to handicaps, such as part time jobs or just plain loafing in the class room. But they aren't dumb. It takes plenty of brains to play college football today."

Stuhldreher left today for Salt Lake City and from there will go to San Francisco.

Lou Brouillard Stops Marcel Thil

Referee Counts Ten and Then Says Frenchman Was Fouled

Paris—(AP)—Lou Brouillard let out a howl that could almost be heard back in his Massachusetts home today as he protested last night's foul verdict that meant a third straight failure in his efforts to win Marcel Thil's claims to the world middle-weight boxing title.

In a bout that was almost a duplicate of their meeting a year ago, Thil retained his international Boxing Union championship recognition when he won on a foul in the sixth round. Some 12,000 fans protested loudly at the Palais des Sports last night when the referee, after counting out the French veteran, consulted the judges and then announced he was the winner on a foul.

"I'll never box in Paris again," Lou roared today. "That's twice I've knocked Thil out and twice they have disqualified me. I didn't hit him low. I hit him in the stomach."

Some ringsters figured the knockout blow struck even higher. They saw a smashing right land on the Frenchman's jaw just before he dropped to the canvas clutching his middle.

Apparently uncertain, the referee first tolled ten over Thil, then went into a conference with the judges. Brouillard was on his way out of the ring when he was stopped by the announcement he had lost.

A little more than a year ago, in their second bout, Thil was declared the winner in the fourth round under similar circumstances. Brouillard hit him what looked like a fair blow in the stomach only to be disqualified amidst vigorous protests from the customers. The French veteran, considering retirement, had not fought since then until last night.

Meantime Rogers was upset, 125-84, by Herbert Courtney of New York and Arthur Cranfield, young Syracuse star, took a 125-42 shellacking from J. Howard Shoemaker of Douglaston, L. I., 19-times winner of the title.

Prepare Sewers for Approaching Thaw

New London—The street department started Sunday morning to thaw out sewers in the city in preparation for another thaw like that of last week. A steam engine, operated by Dave Hintzke, was put to work on North Water street to clear the main thoroughfares first. The work was done Sunday because there is less traffic that day. It has been necessary to tow the steam engine with a tractor because of the slippery condition of the streets, according to Albert Gessse, superintendent of street.

Manitowish farmers add to their winter income by trapping coyotes and badgers from their houses. Peckers were worth $5 to $7 and some hunters report two and three kills daily.

94TH BIRTHDAY

John W. Merrill, oldest surviving Civil War veteran in Waupaca county and a resident of Clintonville until about two months ago, today observed his ninety-fourth birthday anniversary at Wisconsin Veterans Home.

Oldest Veteran of County Observes His 94th Birthday

Clintonville—Tuesday marks the ninety-fourth birthday anniversary of John W. Merrill, father of A. L. Merrill of this city. Although a resident of Clintonville for several years, the aged man was taken to the Wisconsin Veterans Home near Waupaca about two months ago. Mr. Merrill is the oldest living Civil War veteran residing in Waupaca county. Despite his advanced age, his general health is fair, but he is handicapped by impaired eyesight and hearing. The aged veteran attended the state G. A. R. convention held at Oshkosh in the summer of 1935 at the age of 93.

Born in the state of New York, Jan. 18 1843, Mr. Merrill came to Wisconsin at the age of 3 with his parents. At the outbreak of the Civil War, he enlisted with northern troops at the age of 20. After being stationed at the Milwaukee barracks for several weeks he was transferred to St. Louis and then to Fort Union, Montana, where he assisted in a campaign to halt the marauding expeditions of the Sioux Indians. At the close of the Civil War his company was ordered to Louisville, Ky., where he remained for three months before being mustered out of the army.

Upon returning to Wisconsin, the young soldier took up a 160-acre homestead in Clark county, which he operated for a number of years. The family later lived at Antigo for 20 years and at Antigo for 30 years. Besides his son A. L. Merrill of Clintonville, a retired railway conductor, there is one daughter, Mrs. F. J. Olmsted of Antigo, and eight grandchildren.

Barbara Stanwyck says: "Luckies make a hit with my throat"

"When talking pictures arrived, my stage experience on Broadway gave me my chance on the screen. Taking care of my throat became serious business with me, so I changed to Luckies—a light smoke. Of course I smoke other cigarettes now and then but sooner or later I come back to Luckies. They make a hit with my throat and also with my taste."

Barbara Stanwyck

RKO RADIO PICTURES STAR NOW APPEARING IN "THE PLOUGH AND THE STARS"

An independent survey was made recently among professional men and women—lawyers, doctors, lecturers, scientists, etc. Of those who said they smoke cigarettes, more than 87% stated they personally prefer a light smoke.

Miss Stanwyck verifies the wisdom of this preference, and so do other leading artists of the radio, stage, screen and opera. Their voices are their fortunes. That's why so many of them smoke Luckies. You, too, can have the throat protection of Luckies—a light smoke, free of certain harsh irritants removed by the exclusive process "It's Toasted". Luckies are gentle on the throat.
